Aircraft Down On Island

ALBERNI—Falling snow and darkness forced a halt to air and ground search last night for a plane seen plummeting to earth near Dog Mountain, 15 miles northwest of here.

Late last night it was still not known what type of plane was down, nor how many people were aboard.

Land search, by the Alberni Valley Search and Rescue Squad with RCMP and a doctor, and air search by a helicopter and Albatross aircraft from the RCAF Rescue Centre, Sea Island, will resume at first light this morning, weather permitting.

The helicopter stayed here overnight.

First reports of the crash came from two residents of the area northwest of Alberni to B.C. Airlines Ltd. office.

The callers were Derek Kingsley of Faber Road, and Mrs. Claud Jordan of Kiegsstad Park, off Faber Road.

DEFINITELY DOWN

Both said the plane was definitely down on the west side of Dog Mountain.

"It was snowing," said Mrs. Jordan, "and I saw the plane, still quite high, spiralling toward the earth."

"It was making an awful racket."

SPIRALLED DOWN

"Then, however, the plane spiralled down again, and went out of sight behind the mountain."

Area of the search is at Two Rivers Arm, a branch of Sproat Lake, but a considerable cross-country hike is indicated to reach the probable crash scene.

Ferry Capsizes, 22 Feared Lost

SEOUL (AP) — Twenty-two Koreans are feared lost in the capsizing of a small ferry boat near Changwon, 30 miles west of Pusan, the national police reported Thursday. The ferry sank Wednesday with 11 persons aboard. Nineteen were rescued, 15 were missing and four bodies were recovered.

Walkathon Countdown Has Started

Countdown for the Colonist 30-mile Walkathon is on.

At 5 a.m. tomorrow, more than 300 entrants will set out in an attempt to walk 30 miles within 20 hours.

Detailed map and description of the route as well as regulations are on Pages 8, 9, and a last-minute preview of the Walkathon on Page 21.

Non-Capital

Mechanic Gets Life For Girl's Murder

VANCOUVER (CP)—James William English, 24, an unemployed auto mechanic charged with capital murder in the death of a girl whose body has not been found, Thursday was found guilty on a reduced charge of non-capital murder.

He was given a life sentence for the death of Sandra Ann McLaren, whose body police alleged was thrown over Burrard Street Bridge.

The girl vanished from a Boxing Day party and her body never was found. The case was only the second in Canadian history in which a capital murder charge was laid in the absence of a body.

Police testified that English had admitted bludgeoning the girl and throwing her from a bridge into False Creek.

When sentence was passed, he choked and began sobbing quietly.

When asked whether he had anything to say, English replied:

"No, my lord."

Mystery Model Returns

Christine Keeler, the British model whose friendship with cabinet minister raised controversy in parliament, pushes her way through onlookers with help of police after arriving at London airport from Spain. Miss Keeler, 21, who failed to appear at trial of Jamaican boyfriend, returned voluntarily. See story, Page 10.—(AP Photofax)

John D Cuts Defections

By SAMUEL LURELL
Fifth of a Series

The last 10 days have brought a fairly dramatic shift in how many voters feel towards Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

In Toronto a married couple were being interviewed together. When the husband, a sales executive said he intended to vote for Mr. Diefenbaker's re-election, his wife exclaimed in surprise:

"Didn't we decide we were both against him?" He made such a fool of this country over nuclear arms."

"I was going Liberal," the husband explained. "But I saw a picture of old John in front of a big crowd saying everybody is against me—but the people. He was standing so straight. He stands up for what he believes."

Similar comments of "He knows his own mind" or "No one tells him what to do" have been voiced in every city or town that I have gone into recently.

In Kitchener a 36-year-old rubber worker, normally a Conservative, enthused, "He's a fighter. A few months ago they had him on the floor."

Those Liberals never gave him a chance. His own cabinet ministers quit him. The Americans have been after him. But now he's hitting back at them all."

Despite this upsurge of support, Mr. Diefenbaker remains a good way off from the goal he announced at the start of the campaign—to score an upset victory "like Harry Truman" did in the United States.

Up to now only a handful of Liberals have broken for Mr. Diefenbaker—with all these shifts showing up during this past week. While he has reduced the defections in his

Hawks, Leafs Victors

Victory in the second game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series with Detroit Red Wings had its price for Chicago Black Hawks last night. Star centre Bobby Hull broke his nose and suffered such a severe cut that he may be lost to Hawks for third game Sunday. Hawks won, 5-2, and Toronto beat Montreal, 3-2, to take 2-0 leads in series. Labor Wins Two Seats In Britain

LONDON (CP)—Britain's labor party held two seats by solid margins in by-elections Thursday.

The results were seen as another setback for Prime Minister Macmillan's ruling Conservatives. Although the Labor candidates in the two ridings were favored before the vote, in both cases the support even the Conservative candidates fell below the level of the 1959 general election.

In the Welsh riding of Swansea East, Labor candidate Neil McBride ran up a total of 18,909 votes for a winning margin of 14,014 votes.

Second highest in the vote total was Liberal Richard Owens with 4,885 votes. Rev. Leon M. Kin, an independent, was third with 2,462. Conservative Pamela Thomas fourth with 2,272.

In the Yorkshire steel town of Rotherham, Labor candidate Brian O'Malley ran up a total of 22,441 votes in a three-way fight.

Conservative Michael Barras was second with 9,208 votes.

IN BUSHLAND

A few hours later a junk dealer stumbled upon the body of Dixon's attractive, blond girl friend some eight miles away. Her killer had dragged her into a bushland area and covered her with parts of an abandoned car.

She had been viciously beaten about the face, and her head jammed so hard into the ground that it's impression was still visible hours after her body had been removed.

The grisly discoveries touched off one of the most intensive investigations ever launched in B.C.

But months later veteran police officers could say only one thing—it is the most baffling case they ever encountered.

Super-Saturn Hits Four Times in Row

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (CP) — The Saturn super-booster, forerunner of a manned moon rocket, registered its fourth straight test-flight success yesterday and demonstrated that it can operate if one of its eight engines fails.

With its mammoth power plant generating 1,300,000 pounds of thrust, the world's largest rocket broke away from its launching pad at 3:12 p.m. EST.

FLAWLESS FLIGHT

Performing with flawless precision, the 165-foot-tall projectile raced across a clear sky, climbing to an altitude of about 77 miles before plunging back to break up and sink in the Atlantic Ocean about 230 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral.

LAST TEST

The seven-minute flight was the last test for Saturn's first stage only. Flight tests for the second stage will start within a few months, aiming at a time when the whole assembly will carry a manned capsule to the moon.

One of Saturn's four inboard engines was shut off deliberately after 100 seconds of powered flight to simulate a failure.

Queen Back Home; Last Grand Tour?

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip returned to Windsor Castle Thursday after a gruelling two-month royal tour of Australia, New Zealand and Fiji that reports say may be the last such "royal grand tour."

Princess Ann and her grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth, were at London's Heathrow Airport to greet her parents when their Boeing-707 jetliner touched down on a flight from Australia via Vancouver.

They went aboard for a brief family reunion and then the Queen and Philip stepped from the aircraft to meet the long line of officials there to welcome them.

PRINCES ASSENT

Prince Charles, 14-year-old heir to the throne, and Prince Andrew, his younger brother, were not at the airport. Charles is at school in Scotland and three-year-old Andrew still is too young to attend such official occasions.

The Queen looked a little pale after the 14,600-mile flight from Perth, Australia, but Philip was tanned and smiling. Both of them chatted with Prime Minister Macmillan as they walked from the plane. Speculation that this may be the last of the long royal tours of Commonwealth countries started shortly after the royal couple arrived in Australia.

SHORTER VISITS

Within the ever-changing context of the Commonwealth, it has been suggested that rather than rare state visits that cover the whole nation, the Queen should make more frequent but shorter visits for specific occasions—such as the opening of Parliaments.

Commentators along the route of the royal couple in Australia noted that public welcomes for them were somewhat less tumultuous than hoped for—though no one suggested that Australians' affection for the Queen had lessened.

Fists Fly for Christine

PARIS (Reuters) — Blows were exchanged between reporters and friends escorting Christine Keeler, Britain's red-haired "missing model," when she arrived at Le Bourget Airport here today from Madrid.

One U.S. radio correspondent who tried to record an interview with Miss Keeler was knocked to the ground.

At least 60 photographers and television and movie cameramen swarmed around Miss Keeler, whose disappearance from England two weeks ago led to questions being asked in the British House of Commons.

Friends who met her at the airport got into a tussle with reporters as Miss Keeler tried to make her way from the plane to the airport lounge.

Blows were exchanged.

Later, she agreed to be photographed and turned down the sheep-skin coat collar she had been using to hide her face.

Miss Keeler sparked a wave of rumors when she did not appear as a witness at the trial in London of a West Indian Johnny Edgcombe on a charge of illegally possessing a firearm.

She was located in Madrid last week.

Flash Tieups Jolt Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Gas and electricity workers jolted Paris Thursday with flash strikes that stopped trains and elevators in mid-trip and left lunches half-cooked on stoves.

Another walkout halted 90 per cent of service on key Paris bus lines.

The gas and electricity stoppages were the first of an eight-day series of flash strikes by 120,000 employees of the state-operated utilities to back demands for higher pay and to demonstrate their sympathy for the month-old walkout of 200,000 coal miners.

MORE PRESSURE

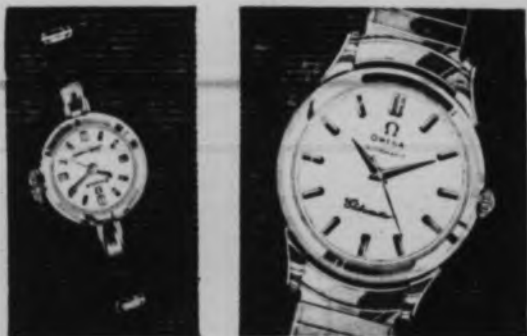

The strikes put more pressure on President Charles de Gaulle's government, faced with its worst domestic crisis since de Gaulle returned to power five years ago.

U.K. to Let Peers Renounce Titles

LONDON (CP) — Iain Macleod, government leader in the House of Commons, indicated Thursday the government is willing to accept the recommendation of a special committee that peers be permitted to renounce their titles and seek election to the Commons.

He did not give details but said a statement will be made after Easter, after the views of MPs have been studied fully.

Macleod said he did not see "any particular difficulties" in enacting the recommendations.

Lisbon Boots Bidault

BONN, West Germany (Reuters)—French anti-Gaulist leader Georges Bidault found at least three avenues to asylum closed to him Thursday as West Germany, Italy and Portugal announced they don't want him.

There was speculation Bidault might seek asylum in South America.

Lisbon, Portugal, from West Germany four days ago has been "invited to leave" by Portuguese authorities because he entered the country with false identity papers.

Hangover Left

HAVING TIED the record for a lengthy session members of the Legislature have gone home, their 45-day deliberation of provincial business at an end.

There is a hangover, however, in the form of a continuing probe into the highways department which provided the chief controversial spark of the session now ended. The 13 MLAs who have sat in investigation as the public accounts committee will carry on as a special board of inquiry.

Otherwise the 1963 gathering of legislators debated for the most part in commendably decorous demeanor along what has been called quiet lines. The highways allegations apart, the session was an unspectacular one.

There is no legitimate reason why a session of the legislature must be exciting in character in order to promote the welfare of the province. Much good work can be done by steady application unadorned by fireworks. It is not to be expected either that every year sees need for new major legislation.

Thus the session just closed, if it lacked some new and unexpected development, indicated the even tenor of B.C. progress. A distinct educational departure was to be noted, however, in the provision of new universities and the establishment of junior colleges, pointers to the concepts envisaged by the new head of UBC. For this city satisfaction came with the final steps to transfer Victoria College into an independent degree-granting university.

For the rest the legislative measures this year included the abolition of the amusement tax, an end to bridge tolls, a raising of homeowners' grants, and of MLA remuneration, all sure of general acceptance and provoking small if any dissent.

Of prior interest to the public of course remains the outcome of the highways probe, better conducted by judicial inquiry or royal commission but which in its present form the public expects will be pursued to a positive and purposeful conclusion.

Travel Dangers

SINCE THE end of the Second World War most governments, including those behind the Iron Curtain, have through international agreement removed many of the restrictions which at one time effectively prevented their territories being visited by foreign nationals.

Today the regulations generally have been relaxed to such an extent that an individual wishing to visit another country faces few major problems. True, he must abide by the laws and customs of any country he visits, and he will also find in some that his touring may be confined to certain areas. But by and large, the visiting foreigner is given a far greater degree of freedom of movement than ever before.

This, plus the jet-age ease and speed of travelling has resulted in an upsurge in international tourism during the past few years. And it has, until now, all been to the good; among its beneficial results being a closer understanding among various peoples in far distant lands and a deeper appreciation of each other's problems.

To the idealist in each of us the present situation could only be made more perfect if the few restrictions which still remain were eliminated.

Yet it now appears that too much freedom has already been given.

During the past year two dreadful diseases, smallpox and typhoid, have been brought into European countries by foreign travellers. The smallpox epidemic of last year reached serious proportions in Britain alone, and even spread as far as Canada and the United States.

In Switzerland at the present moment a typhoid epidemic has swept through the town of Zermatt infecting more than 200 of its residents. Latest reports indicate that the disease was brought to the small winter resort by an Italian tourist. More than 40 cases have also been reported in Britain each of which is directly traceable to the Swiss epidemic.

Thus does it appear that freedom of movement between countries has its dangers.

A Capital Budget

PRASEWORTHY as has been the civic course which over more than a decade has enabled Victoria to achieve the distinction among Canadian municipalities of steadily reducing its debt, it seems obvious that the time has come when to try to adhere closely to a pay-as-you-go policy would be either to deprive the city of needed improvements or to place an unfair burden on present taxpayers. Hence Mayor Wilson's call for preparation of a capital budget, enabling property-owners to vote on borrowing for a program of works of some permanence in the next few years, should have wide approval.

With the reverted land sales fund—the source of money for several major projects in the last few years—now devoted to the development of Centennial Square, the choice apart from securing loans is between an unwelcome rise in Victoria's already comparatively high rate of taxation and continuing to do without such works, increasingly necessary, as for example the construction of two new firehalls and the rebuilding of the police headquarters building.

These improvements and others of similar nature that no doubt would be included in a capital-expenditure program covering the next five years or so would be of enduring benefit, at least one might expect while the loans were being repaid over the next 20 or 25 years. Such projects are in the same category as schools, which thankfully are not built entirely at the expense of the taxpayers currently served by them.

Fortunately Victoria has not allowed itself in recent times to be cornered into having to obtain loans for resurfacing of main roads or overhaul of sewer and water systems. Wisely such works have been scheduled as a continuing annual expense and regarded as keeping in the best possible shape what has already been installed.

But to draw up a list of new developments that Victoria most urgently needs and to place it before the ratepayers for approval of the borrowing entailed would afford them the opportunity to vote for progress without undue penalty, and the likelihood is that most would jump at the chance.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and scaling wox..."

By TOM TAYLOR

A MAN says that in a few years' time the mainland ferries might be obsolete, a piece of news that is enough to give VMD a fright and induce Mr. Bennett to resign.

Just imagine. A ferry fleet now boosted as the best of its kind, and touching its peak of popularity, about to be demoted! Why, it's only really swinging into action.

This is not official, but a recent speaker from Nanaimo cited hovercraft as the cross-strait vehicle of the future. One such could take you from the Inner Harbor to the Lions Gate Bridge in less than an hour.

That time almost rivals the gulls' touristic once were advised to follow to Victoria.

I know as much about hovercraft as I do about nuclear missiles, but I doubt seriously the ferry service is threatened, for a while at least. A quantity design may be on the drafting board but I fancy we're a long way off a hovercraft than can carry 100 cars or so.

And nothing less will do in the years looming ahead.

Still, the means of conveyance does change, although being from Nanaimo, perhaps the man was throwing a scare at the capital city, so recently rescued from a high-and-dry state.

I am not scoffing, however. In my own methods of motion I have sampled the transit developments which have made this twentieth century remarkable.

My first memory, albeit slender and hard to focus, is of horse-drawn trams, which in turn gave way to electric cars, which in turn bowed to buses, or coaches, as they are more politely known in some circles, which in turn lost in measurable degree to automobiles, which became affected and left behind by aircraft, which in turn lost their glamor when the ferries said to be about ready to disappear, came in.

And none of this takes heed of continental planes, trains of long standing, big sea-going liners and little strait liners, the transfer of goods and people by truck and car or long, straight blacktop highways which revolutionized society.

All to do with getting places more quickly or conveniently than before; and each form of conveyance in turn winning favor and holding first place. The preference has changed, back and forth and back again in some instances.

Who will venture to say what lies in store ahead? Or that there can be nothing more new to enable the life-blood of a nation to flow from one part of the national body to another.

That is what transit is all about: the movement of people and things whether on business or pleasure bent.

Personally, perhaps because they have been longer in my conscious or sub-conscious mind, I think of ships and trains as basic to the human scene. And likewise roads. Men had to have roads even before they had a ship, and both these came long before trains.

All three, if you like, are of a piece, essential to the well of a modern society with its complex demands and requirements.

They are not regarded in quite the same way, however.

In Britain this week, you would read, they are uncovering the Beeching report that aims to make the railways pay their way—keep out of the red, that is—by chopping off many miles of route and closing unprofitable stations.

This is bound to alarm railway men much more than the threat of a hovercraft here, and there is one peculiar feature of railways, and ships too, come to think of it.

No one ever expects roads to keep out of the red.

Yet as we have seen a road, a ship, a train are each an artery of national life, without which a nation might be in dire distress. Strange, isn't it?

Of course this thesis might be evoked elsewhere, and probably will when the cities take over the hydro buses. They are an artery as well, within the civic body.

And they promise to be with us even if hovercraft also hover in our midst.

International Commentary

Lord Home's Idea for NATO

By W. N. EWER

WHEN Lord Home decided to attend in person one of the regular weekly meetings of the NATO Council, there was an outbreak of suspicion, speculation and gossip. The British foreign secretary, who was suggested, was going to Paris in order to try to drive wedges between France and the other five members of the "Common Market."

There was never any such intention—let alone any idea of using the occasion for a polemical criticism of General de Gaulle and of French policy with regard to Britain and the Common Market. Of that, his speech to the NATO Council should have convinced all but the most incurably suspicious.

The purpose of the visit of the speech and of the conversations with other ministers and representatives was two-fold.

First, to urge that the Brussels failure shall not be allowed in any way to weaken the essential unity of the NATO Alliance, and to suggest ways and means of ensuring continued consultation between the European members.

Second, to urge that there should be no cessation or slowing down of the work of trying to improve the military organization of the alliance, with special reference to the organization and political control of its nuclear armaments.

This last has become in recent months a highly controversial subject.

There is general agreement that the existing structure is unsatisfactory. The fact that at present the United States and Britain are the only members which possess nuclear warheads and atomic or thermo-nuclear bombs is, for the present, an inescapable fact. France's nuclear armament is still in its embryonic state. The other NATO countries have none and show no wish to have any of their own.

Nevertheless, they very naturally feel that they should have some share in the organization, in the military command and in the ultimate political control of the nuclear weapons. The problem is to satisfy this natural desire without impairing military efficiency.

The Nassau Agreement between President Kennedy and

Mr. Macmillan opened the way. Now the British foreign secretary makes more specific proposals for the rapid creation of a NATO nuclear force, to which some members could make some contribution, and in the control and management of which those participating could have a say. This force, consisting of national contributions, has become known as the "multinational" force.

Details are, of course, technical and outside my province. But the main purpose is clear.

Here is a system which could be created without delay; it establishes the principle of a NATO nuclear force in which all members could share—though in different measures. It should be militarily efficient. And it should not prejudice discussion or decision on other possibilities; for example the suggested "multinational" force with some naval units manned by mixed nationalities.

So much for the military picture.

The question of political control by the governments, no military commander would be allowed to "push the button" on his own authority—is a separate one and will still require considerable study.

Such, in essence, is the "Home Plan." So far from being an attempt to exclude or to isolate France, it carefully avoids doing either.

One need not give up hope that France might agree to make some contribution to this multinational force. She could still retain her nuclear independence to which General de Gaulle attaches such importance. But if France does not wish to participate, she cannot, of course, veto the setting up of the force by other members.

Whatever the consequences of the failure of the negotiations for Britain's entry into the European Common Market, they must not be allowed to impair the strength and stability of NATO. Such is the official view in London.

Because in the present international situation, NATO is vitally essential for the security of Western Europe. If it were to be seriously weakened, that would have far-reaching consequences for the security of the "NATO Area."

Cheaper, Better

Dream Estate

By CASSANDRA
from London

THE Ancestral Lands Company Limited is soon to open an office in London. This firm has a unique function. It is to sell parcels of Britain to foreigners—about four yards by four—at a price of $100 or over £30 a plot.

These blessed plots of this earth, this realm, this England are flogged to foreigners—almost certainly Americans—who are given "a rather old-fashioned copperplate script, which they could hang in their homes."

It is a wonderful idea. In Oklahoma, the Swedish-Lithuanian proprietor of the local grocery store leans back on the pickle barrel and idly refers to "My little place back home in Kent."

In Omaha, Kurt Kleinwachter from Dresden, who works at the gas station on Main Street and who had paid his hundred bucks to Ancestral Lands Limited, reclines in the drug store and, when the Coca-Cola has run swift and cloying low, casually mentions that "the old folks came from Lewes, Eng.—where they first sighted the Spanish Armada rounding the Horn at Plymouth Hoe."

But he does own, in this tumbledown society, the most valuable possession of all—a Portable Dream World.

Not for him the miserable 16 square yards of some tidal bog. Without so much as a single spit of good English soil to his name he can talk to friends and strangers alike and entrance them all with his commanding tales of mystery and imagination about his estate "in the Shires."

At the drop of a non-existent hat he shyly, hesitantly, diffidently, lets it be known that he is one of England's Great Landowners.

"Landscape gardening," he says, "is not what it was. Had a devil of a time removing quite a small clump of fir that was blocking the view from the west wing. Wish that feller Capability Brown was around these days."

Nobody bites.

Rousing to his unanswered

theme, he goes on: "I'll tell you a trouble you get that needs some beating. Leaky deed ponds. Ever come up against it? Had several on the far side of The Downs. Dried up. Sheep went nearly mad.

Parched ram's a damned ugly brute, y'know."

Nobody bites.

"The Italian Gardens." A sheer waste of time. They do these things better at the Villa d'Este, bags of water in stead of damned snow drifts, y'know.

"Nearly got frost-bite drinking Asti spumante on the loggia the other morning after checking up on the Black

Angus."

Nobody bites. But it's lovely stuff—and a darn sight

stral Lands Limited.

AS AN old student of The Army Game—and a sympathetic one—I was interested to see how far discipline has progressed since I wore the big, ugly boots.

They have now got to the pitch where absentees, who happen to be regimental policemen and in charge of good order, appear on the television to lay their beards in front of an astonished public.

Aaah, for the apocryphal days of H. M. Bateman, whose sergeant-major died of blood pressure when a recruit dropped a rifle on parade!

Brevity is all.

His motion reads: "That this House is of the opinion that the length of speeches and the number and length of supplementary questions have increased, are increasing and ought to be diminished, and most respectfully suggests to

Mr. Speaker that he might fall less often on those who presume on the privileges of the House or weary it over-much."

Hum. Fifty-seven words.

Most good newspaper subscribers would cut that down to size in seven seconds flat.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

Victoria, the capital of British Columbia, a beautiful city, a city of flowers, gardens and a most enviable climate: what then is wrong with Victoria?

Ask any newcomer to this fair city, then you will know where the trouble lies.

It's with the people. What happens when you move into a new neighborhood? Nothing. You are completely ignored. You go out of your

Against All Violence

In view of the publicity given to the results of the questionnaire, circulated to ordained ministers of several major religious denominations in Eastern Canada requesting their views on the desirability or otherwise of Canada accepting nuclear arms, the members of The Society of Friends (Quakers) in Victoria desire to record their testimony in this regard.

The society has no political platform. Its historical peace testimony is well known and has remained virtually unchanged for the way to be friendly and you're not only ignored but actually snubbed. Friends of mine who have moved from other places ask me why I don't know why and now I am asking. PUZZLED.

LEONARD WARREN,
Clerk of the Victoria
Meeting.

The Canadian Flag

As the Canadian Red Ensign has been the official flag of Canada ever since it was adopted by the government of Canada Sept. 5, 1945, by order in council (PC 5888), and is now known all over the world as the flag of Canada, why all the fuss for a new one?

One can imagine what the reaction of the people of the United States would be if someone suddenly demanded a new flag in place of the Stars and Stripes!

DOROTHY ABRAHAM,
1125 Faithful Street.

The 'Something Else'

Thomas Carlyle, the Scottish philosopher, said "our main business is not to see dimly what lies at a distance but to do what clearly lies at hand." Such is pertinent to voting day, but the Chamber of Commerce's suggested directive "to vote according to conscience and nothing else" is less than adequate! There is "something else" that is highly important, viz., the individual's choice of opposition as well as government! And under certain circumstances, "conscience" doth make cowards of us all!

It is good to be highly just and fair at election time in order to see clearly through the fog and camouflage thrown up by those who, sensing their own defeat, would pull down by any strategy those who bid fair to rise above them towards the field of victory. Therefore, since we have yet time to think and sort things out, it is obvious that to vote in full awareness of achievements won—whether provincially or federally—one cannot vote irresponsibly, and the vote will be firm, collectively speaking, towards good government.

PENANG ROAD, RR 2
KATILLEN W.
WORTHINGTON LAKE.

Ultimate Choice

The ultimate choice is between the men who make and policies! For stable government is not the product of conditions or things but of men. And opposing forces can hardly bring stability unless united in common objectives.

Possibly majority government originated with the idea that numbers determine cabinet office, rather than the ability to govern? As apparently Parliament can not agree on tranquility.

There's no truth like political truth—religion not being a factor.

A minority is like "no," when unless coupled with "yes" is non-existent. It takes both majority and minority to make government function. And unless unity is in evidence, we find ourselves suffering from political indigestion in a parliament elected to represent the people.

Good government is proud government. But relative. No party has a monopoly. All parties contribute. And when the silence comes upon us, we remember!

1141 Fort Street.

Minds of Their Own

As most of our papers in Canada are pro-Liberals, one can quite understand why so many writers and reporters from the United States and Canada are trying to sway the vote on election day, by telling us how they think the vote will go and how we should do this and that. Surely the Canadian people have minds of their own which they can use intelligently and will do so.

I would suggest if Mr. Diefenbaker wins this coming election on April 8 he should be presented with a diamond medal, after all the abuse and criticism he has had.

OLIVE D. V. WILSON,
3095 Harriet Road.

Out of Date

Mrs. Camille Mather says something when she criticizes our lovely, but out of date parliament buildings. For an "out of date government" to be so poor, it cannot afford to have an elevator that works, and unable to pay someone to operate it—well why don't they use some of that credit without the social end of it?

But this government is so busy talking in billions, it fails to see the needs of the people.

We were handed a 5 per cent tax to cover hospital costs, and you can't get a bed in hospital! There has been no mention in this session about some way of cutting the cost of living.

A. CAROLYN BAYFIELD.

months they really have made their presence felt." The dogmatic Marxists are identified as Brig. Tin Pe and Col. Than Sein, two members of the revolutionary council that has led Burma since U Nu was deposed as prime minister March 2, 1962.

Many sources in Rangoon feel certain that Gen. Ne Win, chairman of the council, is especially relying on Tin Pe.

Brig. Aung Gyi, recently retired from the revolutionary council, formerly was considered the heir-apparent to Ne Win and the force behind the government's drive to achieve a Socialist economy.

Unlike Tin Pe's supporters on the 17-man council, Aung Gyi felt that private enterprise could play an important if temporary role in building a Socialist state.

In fact, he assured businessmen last September that private enterprise would not be nationalized for at least 10 years.

Aung Gyi left the government Feb. 9. Five days later Ne Win told businessmen the economy would come under total state control and that no further establishment of private industries would be allowed.

The next week the military government said all rice trade would be nationalized next year that the export of rice and rice products was banned, and that import licences to private traders were being discontinued.

On Feb. 23 all banks were nationalized.

Ne Win signed two weeks ago an act empowering the council to extend or suspend any law it wants any time for any purpose.

"The army tells the judges what to say, do and decide," one reliable source said.

Some observers point out, however, that the revolutionary council feels it has no choice in the use of dictatorial powers.

"Corruption was so complete under the parliamentary government of U Nu," one editor said, "that the army thinks it can be eliminated only through these strong methods."

Burma's journalists, though privately critical of the government's policies, have avoided any direct, editorial assault. Five journalists were arrested several weeks ago. Bail has been denied all five men, and no formal trial dates have been set.

"It might be coincidental," said one journalist, "but in each case the arrested newsmen had been critical of the government in one way or another."

Strauss Becomes Kingmaker

By STERLING SLAPPEY
From Bonn

Franz Joseph Strauss, the controversial Bavarian who was ousted last year as West Germany's defence minister, has begun a political comeback.

Strauss, dismissed from the government in connection with the so-called "Der Spiegel" affair, has been named to a three-member panel charged with selecting a successor to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Other members of the panel are former foreign minister Heinrich von Brentano and Josef Herman Dufhues, Christian Social Union (CSU) managing director. Von Brentano is on record as favoring Vice-Chancellor Ludwig Erhard for the chancellorship. Dufhues leans toward Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder. Strauss, once regarded as himself a candidate to succeed Adenauer, can be expected to favor Erhard over Schröder, and in the view of many observers Erhard's chances have improved markedly. Rebuilt Liberal Party

Mike Pearson Shoots For His Biggest Goal

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — On the chilly night of March 31, 1958, Lester B. Pearson watched the Liberal party plummet to the worst election defeat in its history. The party he had headed for only 64 days lay shattered. Friends urged him not to attempt the back-breaking job of rebuilding it.

Today five years later, the Liberal federal organization is in high gear again and the diplomat-turned politician who got it humming is shooting for the biggest goal of his notable career.

The interval wasn't easy for Mike Pearson, who will have his 60th birthday 15 days after the April 8 federal election. But the results of the vote last June 18, which doubled the Liberals' Commons strength and cut the Progressive Conservatives down to a minority government, have given him new energy.

Remoulds Himself

In reviving the party Mr. Pearson also had to remould himself. He had to switch roles from an accomplished master of foreign affairs to that of a confidence-inspiring leader in domestic politics. It meant turning from the other-world atmosphere of diplomacy to immerse himself in the not-so-dainty realities of parliamentary infighting, party organizing and policy decisions tuned to conflicting provincial, regional and local interests.

A mark of his success is the tone of the current campaign. Last year the stress was on the "Pearson team." This time it is on Mr. Pearson's personal leadership. "Mike for Me" in '63," the campaign buttons proclaim.

Won World Fame

Before he took on the leadership, succeeding Louis St. Laurent, Mr. Pearson had already won world fame as a trouble-shooter and peace-maker. His crowning achievement was in 1956 when he won acceptance of a proposal that a UN Emergency Force be sent to Egypt to neutralize its border with Israel after the British-French-Israeli Suez attack. A year later he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

His 10 years as external affairs minister in the former Liberal government were marked by other achievements: A leading role in shaping the NATO alliance; presidency in 1953 of the UN General Assembly which worked out the Korean armistice pact; nine years as leader of the Canadian UN delegation.

Victoria residents will have an opportunity to see and hear Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson tonight at 8 o'clock at a rally in the Royal Theatre. The scene for the big rally is set in this profile.

tion; two nominations for the UN secretary-general's post, both rejected by the Communists, and service on the three-man committee for NATO integration which became known as "the three wise men."

Joined Cabinet

When he joined the cabinet in 1948 after 20 years in the foreign service, Canada became a voice in the world far beyond its power status. And the voice was that of Lester B. Pearson.

In his early years it would have been difficult to picture Mike Pearson as a future force in world councils.

Born in Toronto, the son and grandson of Methodist ministers, he joined the army medical corps at 17, transferred to the infantry and fought in Salonika in 1915 and 1916.

"I lost most of my friends... and you got to the point where you just assumed there was no other world, resigned to either being invalidated home or ending your life there."

Taught History

A commission and a transfer to the flying corps ended that gloomy era.

Women Deny Daubing

The Voice of Women in Victoria has had no part in recent acts of daubing public property in this area, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The Voice of Women is against nuclear arms but "acts of this kind are in bad taste," said Mrs. Mira Yarwood, president of the group. "Our emphasis is on fostering better international relations, co-operating with the Canadian government and the UN toward the resolution of world tensions."

"No Nuclear Arms" was painted on the Cenotaph, the wall of the Queen's Printer and a city real estate office Tuesday night.

North Korea Attack Backfires

SEOUL (AP) — A North Korean attack backfired — literally.

A UN spokesman said North Korean troops fired on a UN patrol Wednesday. None of the 12 UN soldiers was hit, but the tracer bullets started a grass fire which exploded about 10 Communist land mines.

Calgary Housewife Beaten and Shot

CALGARY (CP) — Murray McGallan, 30, was charged with capital murder Thursday afternoon in the death of a woman who was found shot and beaten in her home.

The body of Mrs. Myrtle Skippen, 37, was discovered by police at 12:15 p.m.

They said they went to the home, where McGallan was arrested, as a result of a telephone call.

Mrs. Skippen's body was found on the floor between the living room and the kitchen. She was severely beaten on the head, police said, and also had a bullet wound in the head.

Shocked Party Lost

Still shocked by the initial upset, the Liberals were no match for the surging Conservatives. Only 49 of the 105 Liberal MPs survived.

Mr. Pearson spent the next four years rallying his broken forces and learning the art of politics. He barnstormed the country mending the party organization, hunting for new candidates and preaching the Liberal program.

The first payoff came last June when 100 Liberals were elected to the 265-seat Commons and the Conservatives lost their majority.

Mike Pearson — the name Mike is an old army label — is looking for the second installment April 8.

Realistic casualties from a factory "explosion" were treated during inspection of St. John Ambulance personnel at headquarters Wednesday night.

The "blast," complete with debris and 10 injured people, was the highlight of the three-hour event inspected by Provincial Commissioner J. G. Archer.

The inspection started at 6:30 p.m. sharp with boys and girls of the Cadet corps giving demonstrations of first aid, home nursing and child welfare.

Senior inspection started at 8 p.m. and included the "explosion" demonstration and home nursing.

Included in the inspection ent of nursing Mrs. Pearl Johnson and G. G. Edwardson, provincial superintendent, all provincial superintendents, all of Vancouver.

Registration

Entrants in Saturday's Colonist 50-mile Walkathon should register and receive their entry numbers not later than 1:30 a.m. inside Langer Lane, at Town and Country's south entrance off Saanich Road.

Here Are Regulations

Here are regulations and advice for Saturday's Colonist 50-mile Walkathon which starts at 5 a.m. from Town and Country parking lot (south entrance):

- Contestants should wear light-colored clothing.
- Walk on left side of road except where instructed otherwise.
- Route is marked by cardboard signs in red (Walkathon) and arrows at intersections where normal traffic markings are not foolproof.
- It is forbidden to cross the roads to gain time. Offenders can be disqualified.
- Anyone dropping out should make his intentions known to one of the official cars, and be picked up.
- First aid will be available upon request from official cars.
- When you feel faint or weary, don't carry on at all cost. Sit at the side of the road and flag down one of the official patrol cars.
- If you develop blisters or abrasions, ask official cars for first aid team.
- Entry numbers must be pinned on the chest.
- Number and location of restroom facilities along the route are listed below.
- Consult map for correct route.
- If you plan to walk late, carry flashlight for the last part of the route in darkness.
- Make sure you follow the route and hit every one of the nine checkpoints which are set up at five-mile intervals so officials can take down your entry number.
- Entrants whose number is not marked on all nine checkpoint ledgers are automatically disqualified.

Running is automatic cause for disqualification. Eleven service stations are providing toilet facilities, water and soft drinks, the latter at regular prices:

- At five miles from start: Beaver Lake B.A. Service, West Saanich Road.
- At 6.5 miles: Oldfield Chevron Service at West Saanich Road and Prospect Lake Road.
- At nine miles: Ed's Esso Service at West Saanich Road and Benvenuto Road.
- At 10 miles: Art Bolster Chevron Garage.
- At 21 miles: G. R. Sterne Chevron Garage on Patricia Bay Highway.
- At 24 miles: Gorton's Shell Garage at McTavish Road and East Saanich Road.
- At 27 miles: Mt. Newton Cross Road B.A. Service.
- At 30 miles: Keating Home Service on Patricia Bay Highway (also checkpoint No. 6).
- At 31 miles: Elk Lake B.A. Service on Patricia Bay Highway.
- At 33 miles: Cordova Bay Texaco Service (until 7 p.m.).

Right of Decision

Council Rescinds Tree Plan

City council yesterday formally rescinded a resolution passed a year ago giving officials the right to decide which trees should be removed from Victoria streets.

Mayor R. B. Wilson told council: "It was quite appalling to see what was contemplated in the way of destruction of the most beautiful trees."

The mayor and other members of the parks committee recently toured several streets on which large boulevard trees had been marked for removal following written complaints from some residents.

Other residents have written letters demanding removal of the trees.

Parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney said decisions on whether to cut down trees were among the most controversial facing the city and should be made by council members. "It's for us to consider what is best for the community as a whole," he said.

Ald. A. W. Toome said the intent of the previous resolution was to shift some of the weight of routine decisions off the shoulders of council. His understanding was that in cases where doubt existed the matter would be referred to council.

Mayor Wilson opposed the suggestion that the issue be given further study in committee before a final decision was made. "This is urgent," the mayor said. "All these trees are actually marked for destruction."

UP TO COMMITTEE
It would be up to the committee, Mayor Wilson added, to recommend to council later what modifications were needed to provide adequate controls in the boulevard tree program.

Ald. Mooney said it was "high time" the city took some action to require installation of a modern underground wiring program such as now exists downtown in the residential areas. Present costs in "slaughtering trees and drastic pruning" to clear wires must run almost as high as underground wiring, he said.

After evading reporters insisting to get near her, Miss Keeler got into an airport taxi and was driven away.

After British newspapers headlined the missing model's disappearance, War Secretary John Profumo made a personal statement in Parliament in which he said he had met Christine Keeler socially. He denied there was any "impropriety" in their acquaintanceship.

WANTED FOR TRIAL
Miss Keeler was to have given evidence in the trial two weeks ago of West Indian Arthur Edgewood, 30, who was jailed for seven years for shooting a pistol at the door of her London apartment. Edgewood claimed Christine was his mistress and had left him for another West Indian.

Blows were exchanged between reporters and friends escorting the missing model when she arrived at Le Bourget airport in Paris Thursday en route from Madrid to London.

One American radio correspondent who tried to record an interview with Miss Keeler was knocked to the ground.

Cuba Raids Bring Threat From Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Premier Castro threatened Thursday to arm Cuba with long-range bombers to counteract dare-devil raids by Cuban exiles. He blamed the United States for an exile attack which crippled a Russian freighter Tuesday night.

"If these attacks continue, Cuba will see herself in a situation of considering acquisition of long-range bombers as well as naval equipment necessary to escort our merchant ships, protect our supply lines and repel aggressors," Castro said in a communique.

U.S. Worried By Raids, Too
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. government considered at the highest levels Thursday how to prevent small anti-Castro bands from conducting armed raids against Cuba which could endanger international peace.

There was a general feeling among officials here that in recent months the exile raids have been taking a more and more dangerous form.

Kennedy, Macmillan

Pearson Plans High Talks

EDMONTON (CP) — Full of confidence, Liberal Leader Pearson said Thursday night that if he becomes prime minister he will fly to London right after the April 8 election for discussions with Prime Minister Macmillan, then will seek a meeting with President Kennedy.

Mr. Pearson's pledge, latest in a series since Monday, came in his last of three night meetings in each of Edmonton's federal ridings. He spoke to a total of more than 6,000 in three overflow crowds, encountering and answering hecklers in only one.

"We have the will and the determination to act — not merely to talk," he said. As head of a new Liberal government he would make arrangements "at once" to discuss with Mr. Macmillan and his colleagues "ways and means of deepening and strengthening our political and economic relations" as Commonwealth members.

JOINT ACTION
He said he also would make suggestions to the British government "for joint action to promote freer trade and for means of association with the new trade patterns developing in Europe and other parts of the free world."

"And immediately on my return from London, I will invite President Kennedy to meet with me." Mr. Pearson said he wants to discuss with Mr. Kennedy and the U.S. government "our joint responsibilities as partners in the defence of this continent, and as members of the Atlantic coalition."

Missing Model Mum When Met by Press

LONDON (Reuters) — Red-haired Christine Keeler, the 21-year-old model who vanished as a key witness in a recent shooting trial, arrived back in London Thursday night from Spain and got a tumultuous reception from British journalists.

"I am saying nothing, no comment at all," Miss Keeler said, dabbing perspiration from her forehead, as scores of reporters and photographers waiting at the airport made a rush in her direction after spotting her surrounded by aviation ministry police.

Wearing a sheepskin jacket and dark spectacles, she was hurried through a different emigration booth from her fellow passengers.

The model, the subject of questions in the House of Commons when several parliamentary members linked her name with a government minister, was accompanied by a journalist travelling companion.

Admiral's "Magic Eye" insures pin-point tuning of AM, FM and FM stereo broadcasts...and a transistorized indicator light glows red when stereo broadcasting is in progress.

Sound sources? Admiral's FM radio brings you the richest sound in broadcast music. Just touch a button to bring in FM stereo broadcasts. Touch another button to switch to AM radio...and another to broaden the band for high fidelity. Push for recorded music, reproduced better than ever before on the world-famous Garrard Type A automatic 4-speed record changer. And if you own a tape recorder (stereo or monaural) just plug it in, touch a button and hear your tapes as you've never heard them before!

Murder Gun Found

murder rifle was found "more than a month ago" by two young boys who were skating on Long Lake. They reported to police they had seen an object resembling a rifle through the ice and in about three feet of water.

RETRIEVED WEAPON

Police retrieved the weapon and ballistics tests at the RCMP laboratory in Regina showed it was the gun which killed the two teenagers.

News of the discovery was withheld as an aid to the investigation.

But RCMP Supt. C. B. Macdonnell yesterday changed tactics and decided to seek help from the public.

THROWN THAT FAR

He said the rifle was found about 60 feet from a portion of the lakeshore which lies adjacent to the Island Highway.

It could have been thrown that far.

In reconstructing the case police believe the slayer first shot and killed Dixon as he sat in his car, then took the girl to the point where her body was found, and finally drove north to throw the gun into the lake. They have been unable to establish at what point the murderer shot and killed the girl. There were signs she had been dragged into the bush.

SEE NO MOTIVE

In their intensive investigation police can see no motive for the double-killing.

There was no evidence that Miss Phipps had been sexually assaulted.

Supt. Macdonnell said yesterday that rewards for the arrest and conviction of the killer now total $5,000.

He said the murder weapon differs from most similar rifles in that the loading mechanism is actuated by a device recessed into the butt.

TEN YEARS OLD

The gun must have been purchased at least 10 years ago and was fairly widely available. Police so far have found at least 11 stores from which the gun could have been purchased on Vancouver Island, but they have no evidence that it was even purchased in Canada.

The model was also available through mail-order firms. Three Nanaimo stores sold it, but all of their sales of the gun have been accounted for.

NUMBERS CHECKED

A check of serial numbers has failed to show where the gun was shipped to by the manufacturer, or in what general region it was sold.

Its magazine was empty when it was found, but it was still in serviceable condition. Police followed up hundreds of leads and tips in the days and weeks following the killings.

NOT PLANNED CAREFULLY One of the most baffling aspects of the case is that the murders were apparently not the result of careful planning, and yet the mistakes which Cold Winds Buffet B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cold winds gusting to 52 miles an hour buffeted British Columbia on Thursday in a prelude to a big storm expected to hit the province at the weekend.

Scores of homes in Richmond and Coquitlam were blacked-out when power lines fell. In Burnaby single repairs made after the last October's Typhoon Frieda were ripped off again by the wind.

Light snow fell in central Vancouver Island and hail once which led to his identification. An electrical storm crackled over Langley.

Scores of Negroes Arrested in Sit-In ROME, Ga. (UPI)—Scores of Negro teenagers staged soda fountain counter sit-in demonstrations at downtown drug stores here Thursday. Police arrested them for loitering.

About 100 Negroes showed up at the drug stores shortly after schools closed for the day.

Vaccinate Villagers

All-Out Drive Started To Hold Back Typhoid

ZERMATT, Switzerland (Brigue to figure out the "time" of the infection, so they Thursday a mass effort to halt a typhoid epidemic in this fashionable ski resort by vaccinating villagers while bacteriologists met nearby to figure out the "danger days" for foreign visitors.

Vaccines have been sent by helicopter from Berne to put down the epidemic, which has been traced to a burst water pipe and has resulted in several hundred cases, including three deaths in the two weeks since it struck.

The bacteriologists gathered at the neighboring town of Month.

No Coalition—Pearson

the story, but did say that some of his ideas may have been misunderstood.

The Gazette, in an article by Ottawa correspondent Arthur Blakely, said the reports were not intended to be made public at present but they have been circulated nevertheless to the "acute embarrassment" of Mr. Pearson.

INTOLERABLE STRAIN

The newspaper says Mr. Pearson's plan is based on these thoughts:

● A third general election in less than three years would impose an intolerable strain on the Canadian political system.

● A backlog of public business awaits transaction.

● Neither the Liberals nor the Conservatives should be forced to rely on the support of another party to sustain a minority government.

● To give the plan any chance of success, both the Liberal and Conservative

The Gazette says Mr. Pearson did not intend any disclosure of his proposal unless an election stalemate occurred, but the fact that it has circulated "is attributable to at least a minor indiscretion on Mr. Pearson's own part."

PRESS RECEPTION

It says Mr. Pearson expressed these views at a Montreal press reception when he was asked what he thought could, would or should happen after the election if neither the Liberals nor the Conservatives won a clear majority.

Mr. Pearson said in Edmonton:

"The Liberal party has its own well-established principles and traditions deeply rooted in our history. It has distinctive policies and program. I can neither entertain the prospect nor foresee the necessity of coalition with anyone."

"I fully expect the Liberal party to win a clear majority in the election on April 8."

He also said his over-riding concern at the moment is not the salvation of the present Conservative government through coalition, but explaining to the people "the action that will be taken by a Liberal government in the first 60 days of decision and throughout the four years of the next Parliament."

Mr. Diefenbaker referred to the controversial reports while addressing a crowd of 2,500 in a school on the outskirts of Toronto.

How to save 4/10 of a cent

Buy a gallon of cheap, promotion paint.

You'll save 4/10 of a cent on every square foot of wall you paint. When you finish the room, you will have saved just over a couple of dollars. And in less time than you think, you'll probably have to paint again.

That's why so many people know it's good sense and good economy to pay a few dollars more for Monamel Paint.

Monamel Colormates Guide

See the Monamel Colormates Guide at your Monamel Paint dealer. Take it home with you. It has hundreds of color combinations that will give new life to your rooms, new color to your life!

Monamel is the finest paint you can buy. A gallon costs a few dollars more than cheap paint. It will cover some 600 square feet of wall surface and you'll have paint left over. (Note: a gallon of cheap paint doesn't always cover that large an area.)

A Monamel painted room looks fresh and clean for a long time. Its latex-painted surface can be washed time and again. Cheap paint is apt to come off in the washing. Monamel stays on because it's made to be the finest paint you can buy.

No short cuts in the manufacture. No skimping on the polymerized resins, acrylates, copolymers, pigments, and all the other quality ingredients fine paint must have.

For your Spring painting, pay the few dollars more for a gallon of Monamel. It's worth it. It's good sense. It's good economy. It's the finest quality paint made by General Paint Corporation of Canada, Limited. Monamel — there just isn't any better paint.

Moocking for spring salmon in San Juan harbor at Port Renfrew started to get pretty hot last weekend... and this could mean the big springs are getting ready to move further down the west coast, to Sooke, Becher Bay, Pedder Bay, Victoria waterfront and Oak Bay.

The big springs are also showing in Saanich Inlet where on Tuesday the big spawning herring moved into Brentwood Bay, Indian Bay, and on down the arm towards Goldstream.

With them came hundreds of birds and spring salmon. Anglers have been hitting fair numbers of good-sized springs pretty well all over the Inlet. Ray and Sid Sidaway got two at the mouth of Tod Inlet on Sunday, biggest 10 pounds. Ian Ladel got a 21 1/4 pounder off Willis Point on Monday. Brentwood-Mill Bay ferry riders have reported numbers of 15 to 20 pounders jumping.

McKenzie Bay, Boulder, Deep Hole, Quarry Bay waters have all been giving up limit catches of springs in the five to 10 pound class. A Winnipeg visitor landed a 21 1/4 pounder at the Goldstream and where anglers have been hitting a lot of jacks and smaller springs.

The springs have been deep... 200, 250, 300 and 350 feet and a planer with strip and plugs getting them.

The blues have been off the bite in Saanich Inlet for about two weeks, but may have started back on the bite Wednesday. Henry and Ida Rollings went out fishing at noon, didn't get anything until after 4 p.m., and then landed 12 blues on bucktail flies in the Narrows section of Finlayson Arm. Blues are also showing off Willis Point.

At Oak Bay some springs are being taken and there are still plenty of blues around.

Ely Brewer found some good spring salmon fishing for 13 to 16 pounders off the waterfront between Campbell River and Big Rock.

San Juan River was pretty hot for steelhead last weekend and among the lucky anglers was Enoch Ukrainetz who landed a limit, fishing from the banks. River drifters had no trouble limiting.

Cowichan River is still giving up nice steelies with good catches coming this week from the lower reaches and under the bridges. Now is the time to try the Chemainus River.

Paul Despins reports the Salmon River has been hot and that this weekend should be good, unless the mid-week rains bring the river level too high for the best fishing. Trout fishing has been good below Mile 12.

Midweek rains will make a difference to all fishing, but if the rivers are dropping by the weekend they should all be at their fishing best.

Lake trout fishing is getting better and better. Gray Lake and some of the smaller lakes in the Butte Lake-Sayward Forest area are now producing limit catches for those fishing from shore with worm and bobber. Comox Lake is providing good cutthroat fishing with worms and eggs best lures.

Fulvous Lake has been good and so has Douglas, Quamichan and Somenos Lakes. Shawinigan has been good to fair with trollers getting most, but a good fly fisherman should have no trouble getting trout. In Quamichan a yellow perch type of fly with fluorescent red body, or a black fly with a little tinsel on the body has been getting them. First trout have come from Prospect. Cowichan Lake has been fair for trout and the Cowichan River in the lower reaches and at the top end has been good for trout.

Six-year-old John Scheeren took a 17 1/2-inch trout from Colquitz Creek at Royal Oak.

Tselum, Puntledge and Oyster Rivers have been fair for steelies and cutthroat trout. China Creek, Coleman Creek and Franklin River have been giving some good steelhead fishing and last report we had was that lower pools in the Taylor were full of fish.

This is a big weekend for shooters. Victoria Fish and Game Club will hold its first scrip and merchandise rifle and pistol shoot of the year Sunday at its Esquimalt Lagoon range, with sighting-in starting at 11 a.m. and the main shoot at 1 p.m. until dark.

Club officials emphasize that anybody is welcome, whether or not they are club members. There will be a practice trap and skeet shoot at the Goldstream clubhouse Sunday and the general public is also invited to that.

Bert McAdam of the North Saanich Rod and Gun Club reports that club starts its monthly rifle shoots Sunday at 1 p.m. at the McTavish Road grounds with running deer and bull targets. Public is invited to the shoots which will be held last Sunday of each month, with trophies offered for best shot of the month.

Mixed Spiel Starts At Alberni Tonight

PORT ALBERNI — Annual mixed hospiel of the women's division of the Alberni Valley Curling Club will start this evening with 10 rinks contesting the four events.

Included in the entry are four rinks each from Vancouver and Nanaimo, three from Duncan and Victoria and one each from New Westminster, Courtenay and Campbell River.

Rinks will play through a Chisholm draw with all finals scheduled for Sunday evening. First draw for each rink follows:

Peck's Horse Ladies' Pick

AINTREE, England (AP) — The girls decided Thursday there's only one horse to follow in Saturday's 122nd running of the Grand National Steeplechase — film star Gregory Peck's Owen's Sedge.

Forty-eight horses still were entered for the chase over four miles, 856 yards—a turf course in which jockeys and riders must negotiate 30 tough obstacles. They'll start about 7:15 a.m. PST.

It's the biggest field for a decade. The record since the war was in 1947 and 57 horses tried to land the first prize after a winter as hard and frustrating as the one the British have just survived.

Weeks of idleness because of ice and snow have left racing form in doubt. But the girls, placing their modest bets all over Britain, have decided that Peck is the man to follow.

Owen's Sedge, second favorite at 14-1, will be ridden by one of the most experienced steeplechase jockeys in Britain and Ireland—Pat Taffe.

Taffe has won almost every big-time steeplechase at Aintree. He took the Grand National in 1955 on Quare Times. This will be the 10th time he has ridden in the National.

Bookies rate Springbok, current favorite at odds of 10-1 followed by Owen's Sedge at 14-1, Dagmar Gittell, Loving Record at 16-1, Kilmore at 18-1, Team Spirit at 20-1, Carrickbeg and Frenchman's Cove at 22-1.

Stan Mellor, England's champion steeplechase jockey, suffered severe facial injuries in a fall at Aintree Thursday and will not ride Frenchman's Cove Saturday.

Johnson's foolproof electric clutch makes driving so simple, beginners can solo in 3 minutes

An Exclusive feature of the Johnson Electramatic Drive V-75 and 40 hp.

The Electramatic Drive V-75 and 40 Johnsons are remarkably easy outboards to drive. The single lever you see in the picture lets you control both throttle and transmission with just one hand. You move the lever forward to go forward, back to go back. Neutral is in the middle. How far forward you move the lever decides how fast you go. That's all there is to it. Electricity shifts the gears for you without push buttons, double levers or mechanical cables. You can never accidentally race the motor while the prop stays still. A rank amateur can handle it in a few turns around the lake. Electramatic Drive makes the powerful V-75 and 40 Johnsons the most responsive, most exciting-to-drive outboards you can buy. The V-75 and 40 are as quiet as they are powerful. You can talk without shouting when they're running flat out. And they're so dependable you now get a full two year warranty on parts and workmanship. See the Electramatic Drive Johnson V-75 and 40 soon at your Johnson Dealers.

War Cry at Litter Sounded by Mayor

Mayor R. B. Wilson raised an anti-litter battle cry at yesterday's meeting of the Victoria board of police commissioners.

He also declared war on violators of rush hour no-stopping signs by recommending doubling the present fine to $5 for the first offence and re-doubling it to $10 for subsequent offences.

Commissioner Gordon Carter called for use of radio broadcasts to publicize radar installations as a method of "making motorists more conscious of their speeds."

Mayor Wilson said "the time has come to really crack down" on litterbugs, particularly around the bus stops where the mess is a disgrace. It's just laziness on the part of some people."

Chief John Blackstock said a bulletin would be issued to all policemen to watch for offenders.

The mayor said more rubbish containers will be placed to cut down on the nuisance. "And just keep right after them until we get some gumshoes under the anti-litter by-law."

Chief Blackstock told the commission he had a request in this year's budget for another motorcycle to patrol no-parking zones between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m.

The commission also made the following decisions:

- To write a letter to the municipality of Saanich suggesting they pay $1,600 a year ($400 each quarter) for use of city jail and court facilities.
- To recommend to the deputy registrar of companies that applications for incorporation be approved for two new special clubs, one at 906 Government, the other at 542 Fisgard.

PPCLI Sets Fire Practice

The 1st Battalion PPCLI will conduct a seaward firing practice at Albert Head camp Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Mortar platoon will fire high explosive and smoke ammunition from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday.

Heavy machine-gun platoon will fire from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday.

- To approve the Victoria City Police Revolver Club's shoot at the Thetis Lake range July 10-11.
- To give Chief Blackstock permission to send a man to the law enforcement conference in Seattle April 8.
- To accept the offer of Bohemians skin diving club to supply divers as and when required, free of charge.

The following items were tabled:

Notice of conciliation meeting between commission and policemen's union at Labor Board building April 1.

Order-in-council No. 438 calling for subsequent civil defence training to be done at municipal level.

Subway Train Afire, 100 Aboard Escape

TORONTO (CP) — A blazing subway train carrying at one time about 100 passengers Wednesday night sped three miles, stopped at nine stations and let out the last of its passengers minutes before flames engulfed the train.

Two firemen were overcome by smoke—one was still in hospital Thursday while fighting the $300,000 fire which destroyed six Toronto Transit commission carriages.

Toronto's Union Station was damaged by thick, oily smoke which clogged tunnels and poured through ventilators and subway entrances into the street.

Smoke was noticed as the train passed through Davisville station on Yonge street in North Toronto, but the train crew, following emergency procedure, completed the regular run to get the train off the main line tracks at the foot of the line while wind fanned the flames into a raging inferno.

COAST TO COAST NEWSPAPERS SELL THE MOST!

U.S. Fleet Eyes Canada

Because their own United States government has spurned pleas to resist further Japanese encroachment on Pacific Coast fishery, United States fishermen must pin their hopes on Canada.

This is the message in an editorial in the Seattle Daily Times, dated March 26, 1963. "The American fishermen have feelings of anxiety and bitterness and feel they are pawns in the international politics and that their own government has been indifferent to their interests," the editorial said.

KENNEDY ACTS

President Kennedy has already consented to the Japanese fishing halibut in the Bering Strait, but Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said he wants further study before ratifying the NORPAC treaty, which outlines fishing rights between Canada, United States and Japan.

The Canadian and American fleets started the 1963 halibut season on Monday and reported that 70 Japanese boats are on the grounds, fishing other types of fish while awaiting Canadian confirmation of last November's action by the North Pacific Fisheries

MOSCOW — Post Yevgeny Votushenko, a chief target of Premier Khrushchev's blast last month at Western influences in Soviet art, has bowed to official pressure again. Tass, Soviet news agency, said he confessed his "mistakes" at a meeting of Soviet writers.

Commission, which would open the Eastern Bering Sea to a Japanese halibut harvest. The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union has presented a brief to Ottawa protesting ratification of the NORPAC treaty.

First Concert

College Band Wins Praise

By BERT BINNY

The Victoria University band made a very auspicious first public appearance last night at the Gordon Head campus gymnasium.

They were greeted by an enthusiastic audience which was actually larger than it appeared in the vast space of the gymnasium. The band president is Dave Dawson and the vice-president, Ted Brown. The conductor is Howard Denike.

HOPE FOR FACULTY

The president-elect of the Students' Council, Lawrence Devlin, opened the proceedings by describing the formation of the band and voicing the hope that the university would soon have a complete faculty of music.

The program which followed certainly indicated that such a faculty would not lack in potential and advanced students.

SPECIAL APPLAUSE

Original band music filled the first half of the concert with Clifton Williams' Symphonie Suite receiving special applause from the audience.

Boethoven's Eroica and Delle Cose's Inglesina were also excellent.

Kroth Donaldson's alto saxophone solo in Monty's Nightfall was fluently executed.

After the intermission came band transcriptions and particularly entertaining and intriguing was Dialogue for Four (which sounded entirely conversational) with Jean Meredith (flute), Terry Hyndman (clarinet), Dr. W. Gar-gus (oboe) and David Digby (horn).

This program revealed beyond doubt that this is a most promising concert band capable of very much more than the presentation of stirring marches. Indeed, the well-known Greensleeves appeared as Dargason in Gustav Holst's Second Suite in F and the equally famous Dagny Boy formed the burden of the Irish Tune from County Derry in the second half of the program.

Much that is entertaining can be looked for in the future from the university band.

Wires Montreal Mayor

John D Approves World Fair on Isle

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Thursday agreed, in a telegram to Mayor Jean Drapeau, to a Montreal plan to enlarge St. Helen's Island in the St. Lawrence River and use it as the site for the 1967 world's fair.

It requires approval of the Quebec government.

Mr. Diefenbaker told Mr. Drapeau the federal government is prepared to accept the proposed site after the necessary federal action is taken on amending the act incorporating the World's Fair Corporation and making sure the proposed extension of the island does not interfere with river navigation.

The Quebec government is reported to have insisted that the Montreal subway system, now under construction, be extended under the St. Lawrence to St. Helen's Island and the south shore suburbs as a condition of its approval.

Mr. Diefenbaker said, Canada could make a much greater contribution to international efforts to abolish poverty, promote economic growth and improve the lot of mankind in the less-developed nations.

Mr. Maheu suggested Canada could and should play a greater role in international conferences on foreign aid and development.

Canada, he said, contributes about three per cent of the UNESCO budget, which is set at $39,000,000 for the 1963-64 program. Canada ranks fifth among contributor countries.

In terms of money and experts, Canada's contribution is remarkable, he said.

Union Enters Protest Draws Green Pledge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A spokesman for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers (Ind.) said Thursday External Affairs Minister Green has promised Canada will not sign immediately the North Pacific Fisheries Commission recommendation extending Japanese fishing rights. A delegation met Mr. Green to protest the recommendation, already signed by the U.S. and Japan.

Ottawa Gift $50,000 For Train Museum

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has agreed to contribute $50,000 toward the establishment of a $200,000 museum at Delson, Que., to house historic exhibits of locomotives and other rolling stock, the resources department said Thursday.

More than 40 exhibits of rolling stock including steam locomotives that crossed the Prairies during development of the West, trolley cars and the oldest electric locomotive in Canada will be preserved at the museum.

The exhibits will include CPR locomotive 29 which was built in 1887 and retired in 1960 after more than 70 years of service.

The museum, located about 10 miles from Montreal, will be known as the Canadian Rail Transportation Museum. It is being sponsored by the Canadian Railway Historical Society.

The exhibits will include CPR locomotive 29 which was built in 1887 and retired in 1960 after more than 70 years of service.

More $$$ Than Men, More Men Than Ideas

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is giving more dollars than men, and more men than ideas, to the world drive to raise living standards around the world, said Rene Maheu, director-general of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, at a press conference Thursday.

Intellectually, he said, Canada could make a much greater contribution to international efforts to abolish poverty, promote economic growth and improve the lot of mankind in the less-developed nations.

Mr. Maheu suggested Canada could and should play a greater role in international conferences on foreign aid and development.

Canada, he said, contributes about three per cent of the UNESCO budget, which is set at $39,000,000 for the 1963-64 program. Canada ranks fifth among contributor countries.

In terms of money and experts, Canada's contribution is remarkable, he said.

Warships to Get New Weather Eye

Seven destroyer escorts of the 2nd Canadian Escort Squadron based in Esquimalt will be fitted with new facsimile equipment to give a visual picture of current and future weather conditions.

This equipment will be fitted in HMCS Assiniboine, St. Laurent, Saguenay, Ottawa, Skeena, Fraser and Margaree. The new equipment will enable senior officers of naval forces at sea to deploy their surface and air units to greater tactical advantage by providing a picture form of charts and diagrams produced and used in weather offices ashore.

When fitted, the ships will be capable of receiving copies of weather conditions over the whole of North America, and also forecasts for a period of up to 36 hours. The charts will be available almost as soon as they are received in the weather office ashore.

Car, Plane Dunked in Bizarre Mishaps

Crumpled Car Pulled to Shore

Davidson's car somersault from bridge (background, right) into water, heard his cry for help. Battered car was pulled ashore by cables. —(Robin Clarke; Ryan Bros.)

Three Swam Away

Three Victoria men swam away from belly-up, single-engine float plane when gusty wind flipped it over on take-off in Patricia Bay early yesterday. Navy crash-boat Wildwood kept Victoria Flying Services plane afloat while pilot Gordon Skelton, 31, and charter passengers Richard Moore and Charles R. Clarke were taken ashore in another navy craft. —(Ryan Bros.)

Wind Gust Flips Plane

Three Victoria men escaped injury yesterday when a single-engine float plane flipped over on its back during takeoff and crashed in the icy waters of Patricia Bay.

The $18,000 Victoria Flying Services plane was caught in a gusty crosswind, dipped a wing into the choppy water and capsized.

SCRAMBLED OUT

Pilot Gordon Skelton, 31, of Victoria and New Westminster, and charter passengers Richard Moore and Charles R. Clarke managed to get out of the overturned craft and reach safety on the pontoons.

The plane was taking off from Patricia Bay on a flight to Nitinat Lake on the west coast of the island when the 30-miles-an-hour gale blowing offshore sent a gust of wind in their path and overturned them.

CUT OFF POWER

The pilot said he cut power as soon as he felt the wind catch his plane. He said the cabin did not fill with water right away, allowing the three men to escape the sinking plane.

The men were picked off the pontoons by a naval auxiliary craft while the crashboat Wildwood stood by with a line on the upturned plane, kept afloat by its pontoons.

PLANE INSURED

Bill Sylvester, of the flying firm, said the Cessna 172 plane was only three months' old and covered by insurance.

One witness to the accident was Mrs. Edward J. Rashleigh, 10299 West Saanich Road.

TERRIFIC WIND

"There was a terrific wind blowing," she said. "Suddenly a gust or squall came up and tipped the plane. Its right wing dug into the water. Before I knew it, it was on its back."

She notified the RCMP and the cutter was dispatched to pick up the men. Department of Transport right away, allowing the three

Motorist Rescued

A Victoria motorist crashed somersaulted off the bridge through the guard rail of the Johnson Street bridge just before noon yesterday and lived to tell about it.

George Davidson, 410 Langford, was saved from the icy waters of the harbor by bridge operator John Kirkendale, 1153 Greenwood, barely minutes after his late model sedan was only seconds to make his escape. He pushed himself out and he and the car hit the water at the same time.

Bridge operator Kirkendale said he looked up just in time to see the car somersault into the water.

Mr. Kirkendale shouted down to Mr. Davidson asking if he were hurt.

"When he said 'no,' I ran back to the shack and grabbed a life ring and rope that we keep for painters on the bridge," he said.

TOWED HIM TO ROCKS

"I lowered the ring to him. He grabbed it and I towed him along the western end of the bridge where the rocks slope down into the water. By this time the police were there and they helped him out."

Mr. Davidson was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital, given a checkup and dry clothes and released.

Cecil Ross, of Victoria Super Service said more than 300 feet of cable and a professional diver were needed to drag the car out of the harbor.

Purse Stolen

A purse containing $121 was stolen from Mrs. D. S. McLaughlin, 634 Gallano, Thursday, as she was shopping in a Colwood supermarket.

Colwood police said the purse was taken from the woman's shopping cart as she was buying groceries.

Sugar Price Up Again

A world shortage forced sugar prices up in Victoria yesterday.

The price of sugar, which has seen 18 changes in the past year, ranged from $1.35 to $1.59 for a 10-pound bag in Victoria yesterday, up about 20 cents for 10 pounds.

Prices of other commodities with high sugar content have in turn felt the increase.

Automation

Putt-Putt Unhorses Queenie

The age of automation is about to hit Queenie the horse that pulls a cart for gardeners in Beacon Hill Park.

Parks committee yesterday decided to leave in estimates $1,200 for purchase of the three-wheeled motorized carrier which would take over park chores now handled by the horse-drawn cart.

Parks administrator W. H. Warren told the committee both Queenie and her handler Howard Honeyman were due for retirement. He said the motor carrier would speed up operations and make them more efficient.

CUTTING ENDS

Preliminary cutting of estimates ended yesterday with some $775,000 taken out of the $1,213,000 excess over 1962 spending. More of what is left will go in the final budget sessions scheduled to start May 1.

Fairfield Residents Delay Hospital Plan

Strong objections were registered yesterday by a group of Fairfield district residents to a controversial private hospital and residential scheme for elderly people.

City council, which had already given the rezoning application approval in principle, agreed after yesterday's public hearing to give the matter further study and hold a special meeting in a few days to reach its final decision.

TWO LOTS OF MAPS

At issue are the petitions and maps filed by the developers of the scheme and those who object. Both sides have entered maps with the properties of those residents who support their respective stands marked in red.

Rain, Snow Likely Today

A storm front moving toward Victoria will bring rain and wet snow today, the weather office said last night. It will be very wet snow and is not likely to stay on the ground.

It was apparent from even a casual study during the course of the public hearing that in several cases properties surrounding the proposed development were marked in red on both submissions.

Mayor R. B. Wilson ordered city planning officials to make an analysis of the petitions and report back to council as soon as possible.

Frank Crocker, 1786 Fairfield Road, presented a petition signed by 58 residents of the immediate area. He admitted that the developers had persuaded some of these people to sign cards saying they favored the project.

CHANGED STANDS "But if you check our petition, which has been circulated since last Sunday only, you will find that about half of these people have reconsidered their stand in the light of further discussions," Mr. Crocker said.

The petition claimed that the proposed private hospital and residential development for elderly people would lower value of surrounding single-family homes and open the way to further commercial development.

Letters from 15 other nearby residents objecting to the scheme were also read at the public hearing.

Big Walk Now Only Hours Away

Final Arrangements Made for Saturday Event

Starting time is only hours away for the 331 entrants who will test their strength and endurance in the 50-mile Colonist Walkathon Saturday.

Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy will see the field off at 5 a.m. at Town and Country Shopping centre. Former Olympic coach Archie McKinnon will start the event.

It can be safely predicted there will be a leading group of fast walkers determined to win the $100 overall and $150 in official car, and an ambulance second prizes by slicing as many minutes off the 20-hour limit as possible.

The main field will likely take it easy, hoping for one of the 10 hidden time prizes along the route, or content themselves by proving they are fit to walk 50 miles in 20 hours, or—for women or juniors—25 in 10.

St. John Ambulance will supply a team of three first-aiders, using eight cars.

Radio 811 Club is turning out 12 drivers and 12 cars equipped with radios to maintain communications between the nine checkpoints.

Van Isle Road Club will contribute motorcycles and riders for patrol and communications duties.

Greetings will be extended to the overall winners and second competitors across the finish line in the afternoon by Mayor R. B. Wilson, Central Saanich Reeve R. Gordon Lee will be at the halfway checkpoint at the Experimental

Three Groups 'Out'

Bingo Hit By Curbs On Halls

Three Greater Victoria organizations face the possibility of having to call off their charity bingo games as a result of a city police move to enforce a ruling of the attorney-general's department.

"The police came in last Friday and told me we couldn't have any more than 25 bingo games in our hall in any one calendar year," William Kane, manager of the Royal Canadian Legion, Britannia Branch, 1616 Blanshard, said last night.

As a result of the order, Mr. Kane has notified three organizations they will have to find another hall for their regular bingo games—Victoria Old-Age Pensioners' No. 1

Esquimalt branch of the Royal Canadian Legion and Ex-Servicewomen's Branch 182.

HALL TAKEN UP

The Britannia Branch holds bingo games every second Monday in its own hall, taking up all the 25 games a year allowed by the attorney-general's department.

"We got a directive from the attorney-general some time ago, saying we could only have 25 games in one calendar year, but we thought it applied to each organization, not the hall."

"But a detective told us we could be charged as a common gaming house if we let the other organizations use the hall."

SEEMS SILLY

"It seems so silly—if there were three other halls around ours they could all hold their bingo games and there would be no objections."

Victoria Old-Age Pensioners' No. 1 held its last bingo game in the hall Wednesday night.

"This is a pretty bad blow for us," president R. H. French, 47 Hibberson Crescent, said last night. "It affects all halls."

"What will we do? It has put us in a bad spot as we have about $2,000 worth of equipment invested. We generally get about 350 people out to our bingo games."

"Last year we donated about $3,000 to Victoria charities—Red Cross, Victorian Order of Nurses, the Salvation Army, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the Victoria Symphony, the Christmas Fund, the Protestant Orphanage and St. John Ambulance."

"We are trying to find another hall we can use—one that doesn't have bingo in it now."

CLOSES DOWN

William Stewart, manager of Esquimalt Legion, said last night his branch has closed down its bingo operation for the time being and will likely have to build a hall if it wants to continue.

"We feel awfully sad about it," he said. "We are a small Legion and we don't have too much room here."

"We used to hold bingo in our own branch but last fall when Mr. Bonner brought in these regulations the larger operators were in a much better position to survive as they could offer much more in the way of prizes."

LOST TOO MUCH

"We tried to continue under the code but we were forced to close down at the end of 1962 because we lost too much money."

"Then we carried on in the Britannia with the larger hall and we were able to cater to a larger number of people which worked out quite well."

"Now, with the new regulation we are back to where we were three months ago and it is impossible."

"Most of the halls in town are taken up already. Our only alternative is to try to build a hall and we are considering that but we have no guarantee that they will not change the rules again."

EXTEND PROGRAM

The enthusiasm shown by women participating in the Housewives' Holiday program at the YWCA has brought about an extension of the program for another month, ending the first week in May. Also being extended is the Children's Art Class, Friday evenings, which will move out of doors for sketching during the warmer weather. The fashion design class will begin another two-week session on April 23.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who needs your advice. My father and I have not spoken one word to each other in over two weeks. This is the result of some constructive criticism which I tried to give him.

My father has a very annoying habit of making an excessive amount of noise while eating. This isn't just thumping on celery or slurping soup. He even makes noise while chewing soft food. It's something he does with his lips and mouth. I can't quite describe it but it gets on my nerves.

I told my father in a polite way that he should try to quiet down his eating habits. He became furious and said I had no right to correct him even if he is wrong.

I think people should welcome constructive criticism. What is your opinion? — GREATLY TROUBLED.

Dear Greatly: There is no "polite" way to tell a father to silence his eating habits. You were clearly out of order. Toots.

Criticism can be constructive only if it comes from an acceptable source. A 16-year-old daughter doesn't qualify. And I'll bet a wet noodle to a crate of celery that you offered your "constructive criticism" in the presence of others — which earned you the verbal pasting.

Dear Ann Landers: I know it's not right to read mail addressed to others — you've said so in your column numerous times. But the damage is done and now I need to know what to do about it.

I was cleaning my son's room and came across a letter written by a girl he'd gone with last summer. I am so shocked by the contents of that letter that I've been half sick ever since I read it.

Both my son and the girl are 19. They have been intimate on several occasions. I can't understand how two young people who were reared in respectable, Christian homes could have gone over the line of moral decency.

Shall I face my son with the letter and confess that I read it? (He'll be furious.) Or shall I remain silent and try to forget it? Please guide me. — BITTER FRUIT.

Dear Bitter Fruit: Now that you've read the letter you can't ignore the situation.

Someone, preferably a man with whom your son has a comfortable relationship should have a talk with the boy. There should be no preaching or chastigation. He should be told in plain language that the dangerous game he's playing can wreck the girl's life — and his as well.

Countless teenagers have paid a devastating price for pre-marital experimenting. And they all thought it could not happen to them.

Someone, preferably a man with whom your son has a comfortable relationship should have a talk with the boy.

There are 119 grams of carbohydrates in the fruit cocktail, the quick energy fuel which is doubly needed in cold climate. Calcium and phosphorus are well represented. But it is as a source of vitamin A that the fruit cocktail really shines.

A can of the stuff contains 1,190 milligrams of the vitamin.

After the food went, Miss Klaben and her companion endured fasting — drinking only melted snow water to keep from dehydrating.

Prolonged fasting under medical supervision is a reducing technique recently revived from Biblical times.

Between them, the pair lost a reported 50 pounds at least. There are 3,500 calories in a pound of stored fat.

If the reports on weight loss are correct, the pair used 175,000 calories from stored fat about 1,750 calories apiece a day, on the average.

Research at the Harvard University school of Nutrition has shown also that the fat content is about 11 per cent, comparable to that in beef but of the polyunsaturated variety.

The little fish are a good source of vitamins. Thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and pyridoxine and all the B-complex family are in large supply.

No carbohydrates are found in sardines, indicating that the calories supplied are all in the form of protein and fat. If the oil in which the fish are packed is eaten — and it undoubtedly was — there are 381 calories in an average four-ounce can of sardines.

Canned fruit salad is not listed in the U.S. department of agriculture's "composition of foods." But canned fruit cocktail with approximately the same variety of fruits is included.

Pastel Pink Leads New Spring Shades

By JILL ARLETT

For the last few years the clothing manufacturers have thrown upon us in great heaps all manner of colors: everything from that deep royal purple to bright cyclamen pink.

Now at last they've come up with something original — and flattering.

The new soft pink pastel color that has taken the fashion stores by storm this year seems to me the best color that we've had thrown at us for a long time.

Not only is it an excellent color for use in dyeing any kind of fabric, but it is also an eye-catching shade for both blondes and brunettes.

Pastel pink, as well as many other pastel shades (including green, blue, yellow and turquoise) are the colors of the new spring and summer coats I saw yesterday featured at a downtown store.

Coats range in style and price from crease-resistant non-stretch Italian knits at $89.95 to basket weave woolen fully lined ones at $29.95.

SLIMMING 'A-LINE'

Most of the spring arrivals feature the "A-line" which caught on in Paris last year, creating a slimming effect at the hips and a neat fit at the shoulders.

Although the "long lean look" is currently the rage in Paris, it hasn't hit Canada's fashion world yet and, according to one fashion expert, probably won't be in full swing until the fall.

Business girls will find ample choice in dresses for office wear at this store, and at a reasonable price, too.

A gay collection of cotton sheaths of "suntouch" fabrics (rayon with a linen finish) feature short sleeves, straight lines and attractive tie belts. Price is just $10.95.

Also most colorful and practical are shift dresses priced at $8.95. Dresses have no waist, line and are sleeveless, with neat pockets at the hip and a tie belt.

For afternoon wear there is a wide selection of three-piece suits, which require no coat on hot summer days and lend themselves beautifully to black or white patent accessories.

LOCALLY DESIGNED

Suits are made of a 100 per cent wool material and are priced from $29.95. Some of them are made of imported materials, while others are designed and made up right here in British Columbia.

This store is also getting its first shipment of graduation dresses, in the latest season's styles and colors. Dresses are priced from $19.95 up and are available in the pastel tones and in white.

At the Empress

Stars Dazzle Children

By EILEEN LEAROLD

I have a very soft spot in my heart for two gentlemen from Nanaimo.

And this is the reason why. My husband and I took our two daughters who are just a little under 21, to the Empress Hotel to see the superb European singers and dancers flown here by Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Our elder daughter Erica, wore her first nylon with some trepidation. She is 13. Her younger sister Grania wore ankle socks. She is 11. We had a table near the orchestra and after awhile we noticed ours were the only children there. Half-way through the concert, the hotel staff noted the extreme youth of two of its guests, but kindly turned a blind eye, and brought them ginger ale with a cherry in it.

INVISIBLE

We instructed the children to become invisible. Dorothy Wrotnowski had been the night before and raved about the entertainers, and that's why we were there. The spotlights sparkled on the big chandeliers, the orchestra played heavenly tunes and the floor filled with dancers.

Very soon a tall, handsome man approached the invisible Erica. "May I have this dance?" "OH!" beamed Erica, and off she went around the floor with Mr. Cyril Chapman, just-retired manager of the Empress.

Next he squirmed Grania around the floor. When she came back, eyes huge. I asked her if she and Mr. Chapman had any conversation.

SPARKLING EXCITEMENT

"Oh yes. We had a very fast tune, and I was looking at your feet. My dear." What fun!" By this time the children were sparkling with excitement and about as invisible as neon lights.

With the ice-cream, another tall man got up from a nearby table.

"I'm Mr. Blank Blank (orchestra noise) from Nanaimo. I just had to say how nice it is to see children at this kind of an evening. I want to congratulate you for bringing them."

After he had gone, I asked my husband what his name had been. "I think he said he was the mayor of Nanaimo."

FRIENDLY STRANGER

Our next visitor was a friendly stranger also from Nanaimo. "Had to say hello. Your girls look just like mine did before I went over to the war. When I came back, they'd grown up. Nice to see them here. I'm Jimmy Curran of the Nanaimo Free Press."

We asked him about our other visitor from Nanaimo. "Oh that's Pete Maffeo, the mayor. Fine fellow. Well are you girls dancing?"

Our next visitor introduced himself as Mr. Harry Lowe of CPA in Vancouver.

"We were not supposed to have children here," we began. "Just wanted to congratulate you for bringing them. When the show starts girls, just you stand right up on the chairs so you don't miss anything."

FASCINATING

How can you describe Spanish dancing? It's wildly exciting, flamboyant, fascinating. In their orange and black the girls were streaks of flame, always whirling and bending and making staccato beats with their heels, to the fury of the castanets. They were magnificent.

Next was a titian-haired beauty in a brilliant blue sequin sheath. Nina Silvana from Italy had the crowd cheering and standing on their chairs. When at last she left, she sang a goodbye song and on her way petted the cheeks of Erica and Grania, transported to the front by friends Mr. Lowe and Mr. Curran.

And then there was the beautiful singer from Portugal, Mr. Rui Mascarenhas, who stopped the show with his singing-twist, and the haunting quality of his voice. He appears on the Ed Sullivan Show soon.

HUGGED BY SINGER

The magnificent show was over and we were leaving when Mr. Maffeo and Mr. Curran stopped us. "But the children must meet the stars! Get their autographs!"

My last mental picture of the ballroom, was of the children who weren't supposed to be there, being hugged by the Italian singer and kissed by the Spanish dancers.

They left with autographs from Europe and Nanaimo.

As we made our exit, Grania always the realist said, "Gee what a dazzling night! But I thought we weren't supposed to talk to anyone."

Young People's Union of Centennial United Church are holding a spring fashion show and tea in the Howard Harris Building, David Street, on April 6. The affair will be opened by Mrs. Bruce Barr at 2:30 p.m. Helen Beirnes will be commentator for the

Hat Show, Tea Raises $325

Every nook and corner of the spacious lounge at Oak Bay Beach Hotel was crowded Wednesday afternoon when the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Victoria Branch, staged its annual spring tea. A sum of $325 was realized.

Added attraction was a presentation of spring and summer millinery, handbags and jewelry from Miss Frith's, Commentator was the store manager, W. Sinclair.

Models, all members of the auxiliary, paraded down the graceful stairway to the lounge and around the room to music played by Mrs. Robert Howe.

PROCEEDS $325

Mrs. G. Schuch was convener of the St. Patrick's Tea, held recently by Ladies Auxiliary to Branch No. 172, Royal Canadian Legion. Proceeds of the affair were $46.45. Mrs. A. Ketchell, president, welcomed guests. Conveners were Mrs. F. Lambert, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. M. Glover, Mrs. M. Aldrich, Mrs. M. Miscalin, Mrs. F. Scarfe, Mrs. M. Wilson, Mrs. A. Brent, Mrs. M. Cruikshank and Mrs. M. Mosher were servitors. Door tickets, Mrs. A. Sadler and hamper, Mrs. P. Percival.

National Unity, Purpose Major Canadian Need

Liberal Endorses Free Transit Move

David Groos, Liberal candidate without it costing anything, as date in the Victoria riding, the buses are running empty last night endorsed the resolution introduced in the legislature Wednesday to provide free transportation for elderly citizens.

"We can give free transportation to our elderly and needy citizens during non-rush hours help of this kind, he said.

Achievement of a sense of national unity and purpose is one of the chief problems facing Canada today, Esquimalt-Saanich Progressive Conservative candidate George Chatterton told 21 people at the Langford Community Hall last night.

"The question of the future of the Canadian parliament's function is whether it is going to work for the good of the country or for political expediency," said Mr. Chatterton.

AT CROSSROADS
"Canada is now at an important crossroads," he said. "Mr. Pearson is beginning to play along with the emotional appeal of Mr. Caouette for political purposes on the question of bilingualism and biculturalism for Canada."

"Many Conservatives have urged Mr. Diefenbaker to set up a royal commission on the problem in order to satisfy the Quebec voters, but he has refused to do so simply as a means of getting votes," said Mr. Chatterton.

"He is sticking by the British North America Act in refusing to waver from the course of equal rights only within the Canadian Constitution."

Ease Taxes?

Lottery Solution Needed

Speaking in Esquimalt last night, Foster Isherwood, Victoria Independent Liberal, said that he believes the taxpayers' burden would be lightened if a sensible solution is found to the question of whether Canada should or should not sanction lotteries.

A Canadian-run sweepstakes would make 10,000 jobs available to the hard-to-employ group and prevent an outflow of approximately $35,000,000 in Canadian dollars, he said.

England and New Zealand found a suitable answer and already have the benefit, he said.

An independent member can, and would ferret out all possible avenues of legislation to bring about a solution suitable to all, and the financial benefit in hospital construction would certainly ease the taxpayer's burden, he said.

Tory Tied To John D's Coat-Tails

"I have no quarrel with the Tory candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, but he's tied to Diefenbaker's coat-tails and must accept a portion of the blame for his mismanagement," the riding's Liberal candidate, Robert Ostler, told 32 people at Sausage Hall, in Sidney, last night.

Mr. Ostler said he had tried to arrange an open debate with his Tory opponent, George Chatterton, on economic conditions in Canada, but Mr. Chatterton will discuss nothing but the Liberals' role in the collapse of the government.

"The Conservatives have no platform for this election," said Mr. Ostler. "They are simply crying over the alleged obstruction of the Liberal opposition while they evade the real issues of the election."

Charman Hits Grit Charges That John D Anti-American

Victoria Progressive Conservative candidate Eric Charman last night levelled severe criticism at his Liberal opponents for interpreting Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Victoria speech Monday as anti-Americanism.

"I believe all Canadians like Americans," Mr. Charman told 60 people at Esquimalt Conservative headquarters last night. "But unlike the Liberals, we are not prepared to allow our friendship to be conditional to complete subservience to the United States."

DOLLAR WORKED

"The Liberals have recognized that these American tourists spent $30,000,000 in Canada during the last tourist season, but they fail to add that the vast amount of this expenditure resulted from the Conservatives' action in devaluing the dollar."

U.S. Goaded By Tories, Says Socred

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson charged Thursday that the Diefenbaker government taunted and goaded the United States into publicly criticizing Canada's defence policies.

Mr. Thompson denounced "overtones of anti-Americanism" in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's election campaign, and suggested these would be much stronger if Mr. Diefenbaker deemed it politically expedient.

CHANGE IS EXPENSIVE

Garden Notes

Hints for Beginners

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In the writing of this column, every so often I have to grab myself by the scruff of the neck, figuratively speaking, and give myself a shake to remind myself that all my readers are not experienced gardeners. It is so easy to drift into discussing only the finer points of gardening, thereby neglecting the problems of the young couple just starting out in a new, small home of their own.

In starting flower beds from scratch, in this way, the first thing to do is to remove some of the turf—whether it is virgin meadow or contractor's sod—and find out what the soil is like underneath.

It is most important, in cutting the surface turf from the site of your new flower bed, to spend a little time making your cuts clean and straight for, if you do a slipshod job here, it is extremely difficult to patch up the ragged edges of the bed afterward. The best tool for the job is the half-moon edging iron, kept razor-sharp by dressing the edge with a file occasionally.

Lay out the dimensions of the proposed flower bed with stakes and a good stout cord but don't rely upon the cord to guide you in the use of the edging iron—it is too easy to bend or pull it out of position, then the edge of your bed won't be straight and true. Instead, put down an old plank, using the garden line to position it correctly, then work your edging iron along the edge of the plank.

Don't make your cuts straight up and down, for such a vertical edge has a tendency to crumble, leaving an uneven appearance. Instead, make your cuts at a slight outward angle, leaving a sloping face to the cut turf.

Try to lift the sod in regular-sized pieces and save it. It may come in useful for patching bad spots in the lawn or if it isn't required for this, stack it upside down in a corner of the backyard with a dusting of either chemical fertilizer or chicken manure between layers. Here it will rot down, forming a beautiful and velvety fibrous loam, grand for houseplant soil mixtures, starting seeds next year or topdressing your lawns and beds.

If the soil beneath the turf is grey or yellow clay, or dead brown sandy subsoil from the excavation of the house foundation, it doesn't pay to monkey around with it. It is cheaper and more satisfactory in the long run to dig it out to a depth of 12 inches and replace it with good purchased topsoil. If it is good black soil, even though sandy or gravelly, you have something to work with and, by digging in plenty of compost, old manure or peat moss, you can create a soil texture in which any plant will thrive.

The peat is the most convenient and it will pay to go whole hog and order a whole bale of it—the stuff is much cheaper by the bale than in bringing it home in small lots.

There are three ingredients to be mixed into the soil of your new flower bed as you dig it over—peat, fertilizer and lime. Use the peat at the rate of $\frac{1}{2}$ bucketful per square yard, a good general fertilizer such as Pink Vigoro, Uplands Special or Garden Grove using one cupful per square yard, and hydrated lime $1\frac{1}{2}$ cupful, or you can substitute the pulverized limestone for the hydrated lime, using twice as much.

These should be spread over the ground and dug in, mixing them thoroughly and intimately with the soil.

JOHN CROSBY Sees New Frontiersman in Action

Diplomacy Good Manners

Americans Mingle Russians Do Not

CONAKRY, Guinea — The black teenage girls with the flashing white teeth in their orange and blue print dresses danced to the driving and vaguely Trinidadian rhythms of the drums right on the edge of the Atlantic Ocean lapping a few feet away with all the exuberance and sheer pleasure of the thing with which teenagers dance everywhere.

After it was all over and after you find them teaching people a burst of polite applause from how to stand on their own feet, the diplomats and businessmen watching, William A. Woodward, American Ambassador to Guinea, said, "Well, let's be diplomatic."

He pushed down to the seashore, pumped hands with the dancers, the director, the musicians, asked them the history of the dance, how old they were, where they were from, and then told them all how marvellous they were (and they were) in his accentless French. Woodward is a New Frontier diplomat, which is a whole new Guinea is considered a hard-ship post. The climate is steamy and enervating in a country where even the simplest thing like making a telephone call is immensely complicated. But these are the obvious things. In a deeper sense Guinea is an immensely stimulating, fulfilling, and enriching experience.

For all its backwardness, Guinea is in many ways the most interesting country in Africa, the only one fully run by black Africans.

In the air there's a feeling here that this is the dawn of a new day rather than the end of an old one. There's the feeling of growth and accomplishment, not death and decay, and that makes up for a lot of climate and frustration.

And they don't talk French. The Russians even sent a teacher here who didn't talk French and he had to teach through an interpreter.

As for the pragmatism of the New Frontier diplomacy there's the story of Diallo Alpha, director-general of information here.

Diallo was so passionately anti-American that he told people he did not want to visit the United States for fear of changing his mind about the country. But he did visit it.

At the White House Pierre Salinger took him in to see President Kennedy who spoke to him about Guinean problems and then took him to meet Mrs. Kennedy who spoke French to him.

In half-an-hour the anti-Americanism of one important African leader largely evaporated.

It's the kind of story that gets not only all over Guinea but all over Africa almost immediately. In short, New Frontier diplomacy is in many ways the oldest kind of diplomacy of all, which is simply good manners.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Beatty Apes Brando

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Warren Beatty seems to be imitating the Marlon Brando of 1954. He appears at formal dinner parties in slacks and beat-up sports shirts. Perhaps this is one way to be a star in Hollywood, to be an outball. At least you get noticed.

Tuesday Weld is the girl most likely to be the leading lady in Martin Juro's production, Soldier in the Rain with Jackie Gleason and Steve McQueen.

Body Goodman is in Hollywood to discuss a top role in King of the Mountain with Marlon Brando and David Niven. It would be Dodie's first movie.

Shelley Winters acted out all of teenager Sue Lyon's scenes from Lolita the other night, while presumably under hypnosis. Shelley probably had wanted to play the nymphet all along!

King Vidor is pursuing the very much in-demand actor Omar Sharif to star in King's first film in many years, Jewel in the Desert. Omar is the odds-on favorite to win the Oscar for his supporting role in Lawrence of Arabia.

I thought it was Marlene Dietrich singing in Tovarich. Instead of Vivien Leigh. Her songs were pitched in Marlene's low throaty key. The reviews were somewhat mixed, but I personally found the musical, enchanting.

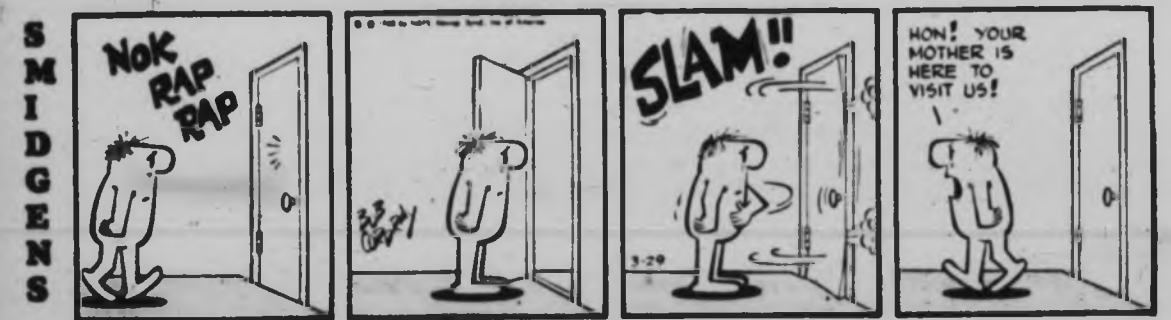

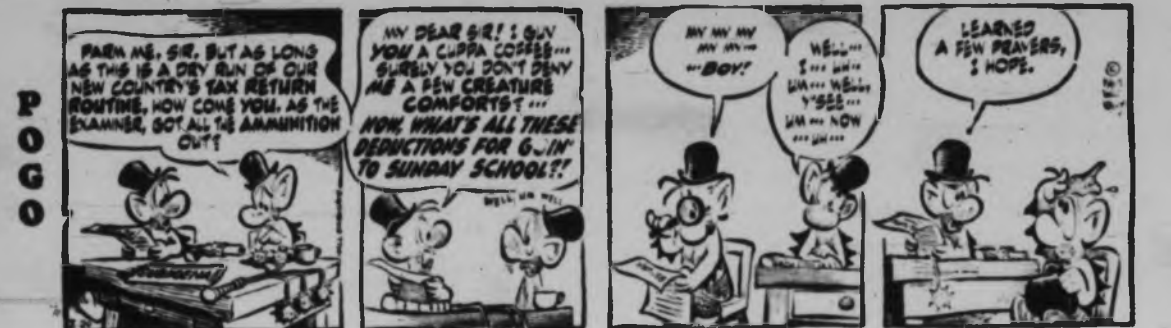

Pamela Mason who recently divorced James Mason, has written a story titled, The Lonely Widows, and she plans to star in the movie version. "There's a part for James, if he wants it," says Pam, who has a good sense of humor.

Let's Diane McBain is blaming behind-the-scenes politics for the fact that most of her role in The Caretaker with Robert Stack, landed on the cutting room floor. Diane is happier with her part in Mervyn Leroy's Marty, Marty. It is too important to be cut.

I hear that Debbie Reynolds cut her salary in half in order to land Mary Mary for Mervyn Leroy. That's smart. Shirley Maclaine's demands for $100,000 plus a percentage cost her the starring role in Ross Hunter's Thrill Of It All which he then handed to Doris Day.

Loretta Young had to fake a Swedish accent when she starred in the original Farmers Daughter, for which she won an Oscar. Inger Stevens who stars in the TV version is Swedish and won't have to worry about the accent. Inger would like to do some full length films, but has no time because of her television chores.

Former child star Brandon de Wilde was given a three-week leave from the U.S. Army, to film, Wild Goose Stop. Brandon hopes to be discharged from active service in May, in time to attend the premiere of Hud, his costarring picture with Paul Newman.

TV TALK

By Jim Taylor

I just phoned to inquire why television is concentrating so much on sports "when there aren't that many people interested."

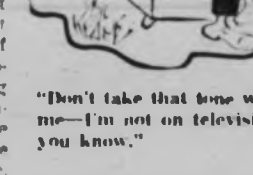

Not many interested? The networks wouldn't agree.

From CBS is sending in 40 tons of equipment, worth $50,000, to cover the Masters Golf Tournament April 6 and 7.

From CBC never has a bigger audience than it does Grey Cup day, and days on which Stanley Cup games are telecast run a close second.

From American network annually a few million for rights to National Football League telecasts, and more millions to film programs like Sports Spectacular.

Now, although it may not seem like it when you see some of the junk fiction programs they're throwing at us, the people running the networks are professionals. If the audience wasn't there, the dozens of sports events would never reach the air.

Friday's Highlights

5:00 p.m. - Speakers for the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties. 2, 6

9:30 p.m. - In your mind it last night another return of the excellent Alfred Hitchcock thriller, Hangover with Tony Randall and Jayne Mansfield. 7

Friday's Movies

9:30 a.m. - She Married an Artist (1937 drama) John Boles. 1

1:00 p.m. - Miss Tatlock's Millions (1948 comedy) John Lund. 8

2:00 p.m. - Part of Strange Cargo (1940 adventure) Clark Gable. 5

3:30 p.m. - Stranger With a Gun (1953 western) Randolph Scott. 12

6:30 p.m. - Montana Mike (1947 comedy) Robert Cummings. 6

10:00 p.m. - Prisoner of Zenda (1937 adventure) Ronald Colman. 11

11:00 p.m. - Salome (1951 drama) Rita Hayworth. 12

11:30 p.m. - Female Jungle (1936 mystery) Lawrence Tierney. 6

11:45 p.m. - The Actress (1953 drama) Jean Simmons. 2

Mechanic Didn't Have Camera

WATSON LAKE, Y.T. (CP) — A transport department mechanic reprimanded Wednesday for taking pictures of the rescue of Helen Klaben and Ralph Flores "for personal gain" says he doesn't own a camera and didn't take one with him to the rescue scene.

"I did take one photograph, though," the mechanic, Jack McCallum said here. "When I got to Miss Klaben she produced her own camera and asked me to take a shot of her. After I took the snap I gave it back to her. I asked her if she would let me have a print when it is developed."

The Pan-American Airlines DC-6B carried her to Fairbanks.

Miss Klaben rode to the emergency entrance of the hospital in a wheel chair and was lifted into a waiting taxi by a friend. The same friend carried her into the airplane.

BROTHER THERE

Also aboard was her brother, Arthur, who arrived on the same aircraft from the east.

She turned down an offer in excess of $8,000 for exclusive rights to her story, it was learned.

JOINT STORY

Miss Klaben and pilot Ralph Flores may collaborate on a single story of their experiences in the wilderness.

An Indian guide and trapper with "eyes like a hawk" still doesn't know he was responsible for saving the lives of Helen Klaben and Ralph Flores.

Frank George, 32, spotted the "SOS" trapped out in the snow by Flores near a crashed plane in northern B.C. it was disclosed.

George, being flown to a hunting camp in the area, was looking out the window when he saw the SOS and pointed it out to pilot Chuck Hamilton.

Moth Ball 'Chaser' For Moth

LONDON (Reuters) — A small boy accidentally swallowed a live moth and then swallowed a moth ball to catch it, a doctor said Thursday.

Dr. David Langley wrote in the British Medical Journal that doctors were baffled when tests showed both moth and ball in the boy's stomach. When the lad recovered he explained what had happened.

"All this goes to show that if a patient complains of 'butterflies in my stomach' he might well be quite right," Langley said.

Boys' Sue Over Keys

NEW YORK (AP) — Six persons sued the Playboy Club Wednesday for return of the $25 each had paid for keys, charging the supposedly private club is not private at all.

The complaint filed in Manhattan Supreme Court charged that operators of the club billed it in advance as an exclusive "key" club but said the keys are no longer necessary for admittance.

The six, who are suing on behalf of themselves and other club members "similarly situated," said some 50,000 persons had contributed $1,250,000 by purchasing "Playboy keys."

'Hot' Affidavits Of No Concern To Road Probe

The explosive affidavits that were to "blow sky high" the department of highways investigation fizzled out yesterday.

Probe counsel Lloyd McKenzie told the hearing in the law courts yesterday morning the affidavits which he acquired from the attorney-general's department are "not worth pursuing further so far as this inquiry is concerned" and there is nothing in them to implicate any political party. But the information contained in the affidavits is highly explosive according to a statement Mr. McKenzie read to the public accounts committee, now reconstituted as a board of inquiry to report to the cabinet.

The affidavits told of anonymous phone calls, offered bribes, threats of blackmail and death, and quoted one man as saying these "fellows want to nail Gagliardi to the cross." The board of inquiry yesterday accepted Mr. McKenzie's assurance that there was nothing in the affidavits which would assist the inquiry which is being made into a specific allegation that $135,000 too much was paid on Trans-Canada highway Project 819 near Revelstoke.

Two Men Threatened

Following is a partial text of Mr. McKenzie's statement: "The material in question consists of two affidavits both sworn in February, 1961. One is made by Clyde W. Thornton and the other by Burton Lymburner.

"The Thornton affidavit first speaks briefly of how he came to invest money in L. & M.

"Next it tells of him receiving numerous anonymous phone calls, asking if any concessions had been received by L. & M. or Union from the minister of highways by way of kickbacks and favoritism. This is not evidence. The affidavit then speaks of a series of meetings between Mr. Thornton and various persons, some named and some not named, who endeavored to persuade Mr. Thornton to supply information that could be used against Mr. Gagliardi. The statements attributed to or not it discloses criminal wrongdoing by other persons such as a conspiracy to incite Mr. Thornton to fabricate evidence or to make false statements is another matter quite beyond the purview of this inquiry.

● the fellows want to nail Gagliardi to the cross. ● the people he was acting as agent for were willing to pay any price for any in-

'Would Pay Fancy Price'

"The Lymburner affidavit tells of an approach by the same man named in the Thornton affidavit. This man allegedly represents certain people "who would pay a fancy price for information that would discredit the Minister of Highways, Mr. P. A. Gagliardi, and the Social Credit Government of British Columbia."

"Pressure was put on Mr. Lymburner by one of his business associates who wanted money from him to swear an untruthful affidavit which Mr. Lymburner refused to do. This person phoned Lymburner "and first of all, offered me a sum of money if I would make such an affidavit, and when I refused, he stated - 'If I don't get this money, the world isn't big enough for you to hide in, and they will find you floating down the river.' I told him that I would not be intimidated by his bribes or his threats, and hung up."

"Nowhere in the Lymburner affidavit is any wrongdoing by the minister of highways disclosed—indeed it is invariably denied. My same remarks apply to this affidavit as to that of Mr. Thornton. We hope to have Mr. Lymburner before us as a witness and if he knows of anything material to the issues before this committee, he can tell us about it under oath."

Witness Allan Rhodes, highways department deputy comptroller since 1958, yesterday explained to the hearing the various types of security deposit accepted by the department with contractors' bids. He also defined bid bonds and performance bonds.

In the case of Project 819, he said, a bid bond was submitted and then returned to the bonding company and a letter of credit substituted.

Letter of Credit Sent

The letter of credit on the credits about Project 819, Mr. Rhodes said, "but the finalization of this job was not too happy an affair."

"There were a number of outstanding creditors with legitimate claims we found out. We were embarrassed by this but it was not unusual."

When asked about a $70,000 cheque to Union Contractors which was negotiated by Clyde W. Thornton in defiance of a court order and resulted in his spending almost two months in almost equal sums to their creditors," he explained, "They agreed to the amount and we issued the cheques."

Aircraft Down On Island

ALBERNI—Falling snow and darkness forced a halt to air and ground search last night for a plane seen plummeting to earth near Dog Mountain, 13 miles northwest of here.

Late last night it was still not known what type of plane was down, nor how many people were aboard.

Land search, by the Alberni Valley Search and Rescue Squad with RCMP and a doctor, and air search by a helicopter and Albatross aircraft from the RCAF Rescue Centre, Sea Island, will resume at first light this morning, weather permitting.

The helicopter stayed here overnight.

DEFINITELY DOWN
Both said the plane was definitely down on the west side of Dog Mountain.

"It was snowing," said Mrs. Jordan, "and I saw the plane, still quite high, spiralling toward the earth."

"It was making an awful racket. Then it disappeared in a cloud, and when it came out below seemed to level off for a moment."

SPIRALLED DOWN
Then, however, the plane spiralled down again, and went out of sight behind the mountain.

Area of the search is at Two Rivers Arm, a branch of Sprout Lake, but a considerable cross-country hike is indicated to reach the probable crash scene.

MURDER GUN IN LAKE

Nanaimo Slayings Remain Mystery

By TERRY HAMMOND

RCMP officials announced in Victoria yesterday they have the murder weapon used in last October's sensational Lovers' Lane double-slaying at Nanaimo.

Labor Wins Two Seats In Britain

LONDON (CP)—Britain's labor party held two seats by solid margins in by-elections Thursday.

The results were seen as another setback for Prime Minister Macmillan's ruling Conservatives. Although the Labor candidates in the two ridings were favored before the vote, in both cases the support given the Conservative candidates fell far below the level of the 1959 general election.

In the Welsh riding of Swansea East, Labor candidate Neil McBride ran up a total of 18,908 votes for a winning margin of 14,014 votes.

Second highest in the vote total was Liberal Richard Owens with 4,895 votes. Rev. Leon Atkin, an independent, was third with 2,462. Conservative Pamela Thomas fourth with 2,272.

In the Yorkshire steel town of Rotherham, Labor candidate Brian O'Malley ran up a total of 22,441 votes in a three-way fight.

Conservative Michael Barras was second with 9,208 votes.

Its discovery in three feet of water at Long Lake, a short distance north of Nanaimo, was said by police to be the first real break in the case.

AT CLOSE RANGE

But they admitted they have had the gun for over a month without being able to trace its owner or find the man who used it at close range to end the lives of 19-year-old practical nurse Diane Phillips and boy friend Leslie Dixon.

Police turned to the newspapers for help and released pictures of an exact replica of the murder weapon yesterday with a plea for tips from readers who might know somebody who had owned a similar rifle. They asked anyone with information to contact the nearest RCMP detachment.

BULLETS MATCH

They said ballistics tests of the rifle found in Long Lake by two young boys who were skating show it is the same weapon which fired the bullets removed from the heads of the two victims.

The two teenagers were seen around midnight, Oct. 16, or a short time later, Dixon's body, with two bullet holes in the back of his head, was found on the morning of Oct. 17 by his brothers who had gone looking for him. He was slumped over the wheel of his car at Piper's Lagoon, a local Lovers' Lane.

IN BUSHLAND

A few hours later a junk dealer stumbled upon the body of Dixon's attractive, blond girl friend some eight miles away. Her killer had dragged her into a bushland area and covered her with parts of an abandoned car.

She had been viciously beaten about the face, and her head jammed so hard into the ground that it's impression was still visible hours after her body had been removed.

The grisly discoveries touched off one of the most intensive investigations ever launched in B.C.

But months later veteran police officers could say only one thing—it is the most baffling case they ever encountered.

Mechanic Gets Life For Girl's Murder

VANCOUVER (CP)—James William English, 24, an unemployed auto mechanic charged with capital murder in the death of a girl whose body has not been found, Thursday was found guilty on a reduced charge of non-capital murder.

He was given a life sentence for the death of Sandra Ann McLaren, whose body police alleged was thrown over Burrard Street Bridge.

The girl vanished from a Boxing Day party and her body

never was found. The case was only the second in Canadian history in which a capital murder charge was laid in the absence of a body.

Police testified that English had admitted bludgeoning the girl and throwing her from a bridge into False Creek.

When sentence was passed, he choked and began sobbing quietly. When asked whether he had anything to say, English replied:

Hawks, Leafs Victors

Victory in the second game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series with Detroit Red Wings had its price for Chicago Black Hawks — last night, Star centre Bobby Hull broke his nose and suffered such a severe cut that he may be lost to Hawks for third game Sunday. Hawks won, 3-2, and Toronto beat Montreal, 3-2, to take 2-0 leads in series. See stories, picture, Page 12.

John D Cuts Defections

By SAMUEL LUBELL,
Fifth of a Series

The last 10 days have brought a fairly dramatic shift in how many voters feel toward Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

In Toronto a married couple were being interviewed together. When the husband, a sales executive said he intended to vote for Mr. Diefenbaker's re-election, his wife exclaimed in surprise:

"Didn't we decide we were both against him? He made such a fool of this country over nuclear arms."

"I was going Liberal," the husband explained. "But I saw a picture of old John in front of a big crowd saying everybody is against me but the people. He was standing so straight. He stands up for what he believes."

Similar comments of "He knows his own mind" or "No one tells him what to do" have been voiced in every city or town that I have gone into recently.

In Kitchener a 36-year-old rubber worker, normally a Conservative, enthused, "He's a fighter. A few months ago they had him on the floor."

Those Liberals never gave him a chance. His own cabinet ministers quit him. The Americans have been after him. But now he's hitting back at them all."

Despite this upsurge of support, Mr. Diefenbaker remains a good way off from the goal he announced at the start of the campaign—to score an upset victory "like Harry Truman" did in the United States in 1948.

Up to now only a handful of Liberals have broken for Mr. Diefenbaker — with all Conservative, enthused, "He's these shifts showing up during this past week. While he has reduced the defections in his own party, he is nowhere near stopping them.

In every urban riding one finds some break of Conservative voters, mainly to the Liberals but often to the New Democratic Party. These shifters criticize Mr. Diefenbaker as "a born squabbler" or "a one-man man" or "a dictator who can't get along with anyone."

A service station manager in Toronto offered this explanation.

Third focal point in RCMP map showing key locations in Nanaimo's tragic girl-and-boy slaying last October was added at upper left with the discovery of murder weapon in the waters of Long Lake. Point where the gun was found by two boys is marked "C." Point "A," four miles away, is where the body of 19-year-old Leslie Dixon was found slumped over the wheel of his car, two bullets in his head. Eight miles south, at point "B," is where the body of Dixon's girl friend, 19-year-old Diane Phillips, was discovered in bushland and covered with the remains of a wrecked car.

Comptroller Testifies

Final Project 819 Cost Double Contract Price

Highways department comptroller A. E. Rhodes told the afternoon sitting of the public accounts committee hearing that controversial Project 819 ended up costing more than double the amount of the contract price because of extensive changes after the job was let.

Final cost of the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway job was $1,557,096 he said.

The contract was awarded to Bonanza Construction on a second call for tenders at $727,579.

"Explosive" affidavits ruled out as evidence in highways probe. See Page 36.

Mr. Rhodes said changes in the project accounted for most of the difference in the final cost and pointed out that all but $186,000 went to Mannix Construction after the firm took it over.

Bonanza was a subsidiary of L. & M. Logging and Union Contractors, the firms which built Trans-Canada Highway Project 819 — the job which

No! Says Grit Chief

Will Pearson Step Down If It's Minority?

From CP and UPI
Liberal leader Pearson denied flatly Thursday night reports that the Liberal party would support a Coalition with the Conservatives.

The reports, circulated by the Montreal Gazette, said Mr. Pearson favored the idea of a coalition with the Tories if the April 8 election resulted in a stalemate.

In Toronto Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the reports showed Mr. Pearson had given up hope in the election.

"Mr. Pearson has convinced himself he cannot win," he said. "That's the meaning of this latest demonstration." But Mr. Pearson, in Edmonton where he addressed an election meeting attended by a crowd of 3,000, said, there is absolutely no truth in the reports.

"These reports appear to be a last-ditch move to confuse the electorate and thereby save the Conservative party from total defeat," he said.

The reports first appeared in the Toronto Telegram Monday. The next morning Toronto's Globe & Mail reported Mr. Pearson refused to deny

Spending on Defence Wasted—Cameron

NANAIMO—Colin Cameron, NDP candidate for Nanaimo-Cowichan and the Islands, outlined his party policies at a meeting of more than 80 people at the Harewood Elementary School Wednesday.

There is no defence in modern war and defence spending is money wasted, he said.

There is more dishonor in having 700,000 unemployed persons than in non-acceptance of nuclear arms. If the same sums had been spent to help underdeveloped countries there might be a different world story today.

Schemes such as the Colombo Plan are an aid to the country and to the economy of our own country, because it is goods, not dollars, which leave here, thus providing work, said Mr. Cameron.

The three-elected candidate said that the Liberal backbone in Quebec had been broken by the Social Crediters and with out that strong support from Quebec, Liberals hadn't a chance.

Majority government, said Mr. Cameron, is not necessarily the best government. If a sincere effort is made a minority government can be effective. He believes that the April election will return a minority government.

Rivals Bidding On Radio Outlet

OTTAWA (CP)—Rival applications for permission to establish new AM radio stations at Duncan, B.C., which would also serve the Cowichan Valley, were made Thursday to the Board of Broadcast Governors.

The board's public session heard bids by W. R. Jeffcott and Nanaimo Broadcasting Corporation Ltd., to set up 1,000-watt stations on a frequency of 1,500 kilocycles.

Both applications were opposed at Thursday's hearing by D. W. Williamson, consulting engineer, for radio station CKDA Victoria. He said if there is to be any extension of broadcasting facilities at Duncan, CKDA should be allowed to apply to offer them.

Mr. Jeffcott, whose previous application was recommended for denial by the BBG last August, said the Cowichan Valley is in "desperate need" of a full-time local radio station. His proposed station would also serve Chemainus.

He said some 5,000 people in the area around Duncan still do not receive either a listenable radio or television signal.

Mr. Jeffcott said the station would work in association with CJAB Port Alberni and would receive programs of that station and also of the CBC's national network.

COVERAGE

B. C. Fraser, CBC vice-president for corporate affairs, said the CBC wants coverage in the Cowichan Lake area. Should Mr. Jeffcott's application be approved, it was likely the CBC could supply network service from its long running northwards on Vancouver Island from Victoria.

R. D. Gilles, president, Nanaimo Broadcasting Corp. Ltd., owners of CHUR Nanaimo, said the Duncan station proposed by his company would carry CHUR programs during various times of the day.

HARMFUL

It would also be prepared to carry the CBC national service into the Cowichan Valley.

However, he said he did not believe that Nanaimo and Duncan could economically support separate radio stations under separate ownership.

Granting of a licence to any other applicant would be harmful to the operations of CHUR, he said.

The BBG will announce its recommendations later.

April Date Crucial

NANAIMO—April 9 will go down as one of the most crucial dates in Canadian history, declared Douglas Greer, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo-Cowichan and The Islands at a Liberal rally in Lake Cowichan Wednesday.

The overriding issue was the vital need for a Canadian government with a clear working majority.

"Without this we cannot restore stability and create the climate for economic expansion which is imperative if Canada is to go forward as a leading nation of the world," Mr. Greer declared.

Outlining Liberal plans towards restarting Canada's halted industrial progress, the speaker emphasized that from now on more Canadian labor must go into raw material originating in this country.

He pointed out that much of the lumber produced in the Nanaimo and district area was shipped to Bellingham, where United States labor was put into later stages.

"A lot of this kind of work could be and should be done in Canada, giving a much-needed uplift to Canadian payrolls and a greater spending power as a result," Mr. Greer said.

"If the Liberal party is elected to government," said Mr. Greer, "its leader, Lester B. Pearson, will call for Parliament to convene on May 15, and we will get right down to business."

Credit Union Re-Named

PARKSVILLE—Ending a location confusion of some years, the Little Qualicum Credit Union in annual meeting approved a change of name to Parksville & District Credit Union.

Arnold Van Horne was elected new president, and Walter Green, vice-president. New directors are Ben Burns, Fred Kent and Lloyd Antrim.

Elected to the credit committee were Herbert Sparrow, Mrs. Norma Antrim, Robert Whitmee Jr. and Arthur Hucksby. R. J. P. Higgins is treasurer-manager and Mrs. Margaret Nybirk secretary.

Sewer Work Advances

Around the Island

ALBERNI—Ald. George Dunbar has informed council here that 85 per cent of installation of mains and laterals in the sewer system is complete, while 56 per cent of the connections have been finished.

Deadline for the main contract is April 30 and for connections May 31. Ald. Dunbar said progress had been slow because of water in excavations.

NANAIMO—Miss Margaret Mavor and John Carruthers are beginning their 15th consecutive year as trustees of the Petroglyph Fire Protection and Water District. They were first elected when the improvement district was formed at Chase River in 1949. Al Menard is the third trustee.

A committee will investigate possible sites and costs for a new firehall with adjoining training hall. The Chase River firehall is on leased property too small to permit extension of the building.

DUNCAN—A Victoria juvenile involved in a sports car theft was placed on six months' probation. He had told court earlier another boy had been more responsible for the delinquency.

A Duncan juvenile admitted having driven a car on Allenby Road without insurance and was fined $10. Shawangan Lake man Melvin Coulter pleaded guilty to careless driving and paid $20.

Lawrence Lungal of Lake Cowichan pleaded guilty to driving without a driver's licence and to consuming liquor in a public place and was fined $12 and $30 respectively. Underage liquor possession cost Duncan youth Malcolm Bennett $30. Court was told the accused had a lengthy record for similar offences.

REGINALD PARSE, Duncan, charged with driving without a driver's licence, told court he could not afford a licence. It was noted he had appeared with the same offence three times in 1962 and 63, and he was fined $25. Elsie Jim Duncan, pleaded guilty to consuming liquor in a public place.

Car, Plane Dunked in Bizarre Mishaps

Crumpled Car Pulled to Shore

Davidson's car somersault from bridge (background, right) into water, heard his cry for help. Battered car was pulled ashore by cables. —(Robin Clarke; Ryan Bros.)

Three Swam Away

Three Victoria men swam away from belly-up, single-engine float plane when gusty wind flipped it over on take-off in Patricia Bay early yesterday. Navy crash-boat Wildwood kept Victoria Flying Services plane afloat while pilot Gordon Skelton, 31, and charter passengers Richard Moore and Charles R. Clarke were taken ashore in another navy craft. —(Ryan Bros.)

Wind Gust Flips Plane

Three Victoria men escaped injury yesterday when a single-engine float plane flipped over on its back during takeoff and crashed in the icy waters of Patricia Bay.

The $18,000 Victoria Flying Services plane was caught in a gusty crosswind, dipped a wing into the choppy water and capsized.

SCRAMBLED OUT

Pilot Gordon Skelton, 31, of Victoria and New Westminster, and charter passengers Richard Moore and Charles R. Clarke managed to get out of the overturned craft and reach safety on the pontoons.

The plane was taking off from Patricia Bay on a flight to Nitinat Lake on the west coast of the island when the 30-mile-an-hour gale, blowing offshore, sent a gust of wind in their path and overturned them.

CUT OFF POWER

The pilot said he cut power as soon as he felt the wind catch his plane. He said the cabin did not fill with water right away, allowing the three men to escape the sinking plane.

The men were picked off the pontoons by a naval auxiliary craft while the crashboat Wildwood stood by with a line on the overturned plane, kept afloat by its pontoons.

PLANE INSURED

Bill Sylvester, of the flying firm, said the Cessna 172 plane was only three months' old and covered by insurance.

One witness to the accident was Mrs. Edward J. Rashleigh, 10209 West Saanich Road.

TERRIFIC WIND

"There was a terrific wind blowing," she said. "Suddenly a gust or squall came up and tipped the plane. Its right wing dug into the water. Before I knew it, it was on its back."

She notified the RCMP and the cutter was dispatched to pick up the men. Department of Transport will investigate the accident.

For Chemainus

Shutdown Denied By Clyne

Any possibility of a shutdown or curtailment of activities at the Chemainus sawmill have been denied firmly by J. C. Clyne, chairman of the board and chief executive of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

The closure possibility was contained in a speech earlier this week by Jack Moore, regional president of the IWA, at a membership meeting.

IMPORTANT UNIT

"There is no particle of truth," said Mr. Clyne's statement, "in recent suggestions by Mr. Moore that our company intends to close down the Chemainus sawmill. This mill is a very important unit in our integrated operations, and will continue as such."

SPENDING $500,000

"Rather than any thought of closing down or curtailing these operations, the company is spending more than $500,000 in improvements this year. It is unfortunate that the IWA sees fit to spread rumors that have absolutely no foundation, and that might create insecurity in the Chemainus community."

EQUALLY INACCURATE

"The IWA spokesman was equally inaccurate when he said that the company had already closed down two mills on the Mainland."

"About a year ago one mill, B.C. Manufacturing, was closed down because of obsolescence. However, all employees were offered employment in other company divisions."

CERTIFIED

Referring to an IWA statement with regard to Harmac, Mr. Clyne said:

"The International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paperworkers' Union was certified as the sole collective bargaining unit when the mill at Harmac was originally built. Such certification automatically applies to all new units of the current expansion program."

Motorist Rescued

A Victoria motorist crashed somersaulted off the bridge through the guard rail of the Johnson Street bridge just before noon yesterday and lived to tell about it.

George Davidson, 410 Langford, was saved from the icy waters of the harbor by bridge operator John Kirkendale, 1153 Greenwood, barely minutes after his late-model sedan only seconds to make his escape. He pushed himself out and he and the car hit the water at the same time.

SAW SOMERSAULT

Bridge operator Kirkendale said he looked up just in time to see the car somersault into the water.

Mr. Kirkendale shouted down to Mr. Davidson asking if he were hurt.

"When he said 'no' I ran back to the shack and grabbed a life ring and rope that we keep for painters on the bridge," he said.

TOWED HIM TO ROCKS

"I lowered the ring to him. He grabbed it and I towed him along the western end of the bridge where the rocks slope down into the water. By this time the police were there and they helped him out."

Mr. Davidson was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital, given a checkup and dry clothes and released.

Cecil Ross of Victoria Super Service said more than 300 feet of cable and a professional diver were needed to drag the car out of the harbor.

Helper To Get $1,200

DUNCAN — Adam Erle of Duncan was not too excited when he learned that his ticket had drawn a horse in the Irish Sweepstake.

By the time the news was confirmed, the horse drawn — Duplicator — had been scratched.

Colleagues at Hillcrest Lumber Mill first spotted his ticket number and nom de plume, Too Short, in the Colonist.

"Why Too Short?" they asked.

"Because I have been 'too short' all my life," Mr. Erle replied.

The machinist's helper has been buying sweepstake tickets since 1927, and the $1,200 he stands to win this year is his first return. Married, he has a daughter Elaine, 17.

Sea Monster Seen Again

CAMPBELL RIVER — Klamathosaurus, Campbell River's sea monster, has been seen again — this time Thursday morning by Mrs. J. C. Durrant of Shelter Point.

The water was calm, Mrs. Durrant said, and something trailing an unusual wake attracted her attention.

"It looked like a dragon," she said. "It was sandy colored, like a weather-beaten board, and was about 25 feet long."

"The head seemed to swivel around like a snake, and it made a hissing noise. There were three coils behind the head, moving slowly up and down. I watched it for several minutes before it vanished."

Mrs. Durrant thinks "atomic blasts and explosions may have brought these things up from the depths."

The monster was seen about three weeks ago, in about the same area, by Mrs. Tom Conrod.

Two Surveys Slated On Coast Link Roads

PORT ALBERNI — John Squire, MLA, has expressed the hope that two routes will be surveyed this year in the study of an alternate highway between west and east coasts of Vancouver Island.

He said that Highways Minister Gagliardi had informed him that he had ordered surveys of the Alberni-Cumberland and Alberni-Horne Lake routes.

ROAD NEEDS

Mr. Squire included the statement in a release he made on the road needs of Alberni constituency.

His recommendations included an immediate start on a Bamfield Road link to assist fishing industry and tourist trade; a Port Albion link, which he claimed would be of value to the fishing industry and to Indians living on an adjacent reserve.

He said the Tofino area can only develop to its full potential with improved road conditions. "The logging, fishing and mining development warrants these expenditures. The growth of the tourist industry has been retarded because of intolerable road conditions," he claimed.

TO BOOST INCOME

Mr. Squire also declared that there is extreme urgency in the matter of continuing the paving program and straightening the Ucluelet-Tofino road at the Tofino end.

In the Tahsis-Zeballos area, Mr. Squire said, the income to the province from present industries would increase measurably if proper road connections were built. "Should the forestry department undertake to contribute to such a project, then I am positive that there would be a decided increase in stumpage rates that would allow for the refunding of this money within a short period of time."

Big Walk Now Only Hours Away

Final Arrangements Made for Saturday Event

Starting time is only hours away for the 331 entrants who will test their strength and endurance in the 50-mile Colonist Walkathon Saturday.

Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy will see the field off at 5 a.m. at Town and Country Shopping centre. Former Olympic coach Archie McKinnon will start the event.

It can be safely predicted there will be a leading group of fast walkers determined to win the $100 overall and $150 in second prizes by slicing as many minutes off the 20-hour limit as possible.

The main field will likely take it easy, hoping for one of the 10 hidden time prizes along the route, or content themselves by proving they are fit to walk 50 miles in 20 hours, or — for women — 25 in 10.

St. John Ambulance will supply a team of three first-aiders, using eight cars.

Radio 811 Club is turning out 12 drivers and 12 cars, equipped with radios to maintain communications between the nine checkpoints.

Van Isle Road Club will contribute motorcycles and riders for patrol and communications duties.

Greetings will be extended to the overall winners and second competitors across the finish line in the afternoon by Mayor R. B. Wilson, Central Saanich Reeve R. Gordon Lee will be at the halfway checkpoint at the Experimental Farm pavilion at mid-morning to welcome the first walkers. Walkers should register inside Loomer Lanes at Town and Country not later than 4:30 a.m. and pick up their numbers, maps and regulations.

Contestants will pick up their numbers inside the bowling alley according to the four classes: junior girls 14 to 16; junior boys 14 to 16; senior women from 17 and senior men from 17 years.

Wires Protest Use of Plane By Thompson

NANAIMO — Telegrams protesting that national Social Credit leader Robert Thompson used a strikebound Pacific Western Airlines on his election tour of Vancouver Island have been sent to Labor Minister Leslie Peterson and NDP leader Robert Strachan by the Nanaimo and District Labor Council.

Council vice-president Alistair MacLeod said it is a mystery to him how Mr. Thompson acquired the DC-3 in Vancouver but the council dispatched the telegrams immediately on learning that the aircraft belonged to PWA.

STRIKEBOUND PLANE

The telegrams vigorously protest "that Mr. Thompson used a strikebound plane on his tour."

"This action is not conducive to the industrial harmony which organized labor is endeavoring to maintain in this province," the telegrams read.

Mr. MacLeod said identical telegrams were dispatched Wednesday night to both Mr. Strachan and Mr. Peterson. Thursday evening he said he had received no reply.

AIRCRAFT DOWN IN ALBERNI AREA

Search to Resume This Morning

ALBERNI—Falling snow and darkness forced a halt to air and ground search last night for a plane seen plummeting to earth near Dog Mountain, 15 miles northwest of here.

Late last night it was still not known what type of plane was down, nor how many people were aboard.

Land search, by the Alberni Valley Search and Rescue Squad with RCMP and a doctor, and air search by a helicopter and Albatross aircraft from the RCAF Rescue Centre, Sea Island, will resume at first light this morning, weather permitting.

The helicopter stayed here overnight.

First reports of the crash came from two residents of the area northwest of Alberni to EC Airlines Ltd. office.

DEFINITELY DOWN

Both said the plane was definitely down on the west side of Dog Mountain.

"It was snowing," said Mrs. Jordan, "and I saw the plane, still quite high, spiralling toward the earth."

"It was making an awful racket."

SPIRALLED DOWN

"Then, however, the plane spiralled down again, and went out of sight behind the mountain."

Area of the search is at Two Rivers Arm, a branch of Sprout Lake, but a considerable cross-country hike is indicated to reach the probable crash scene.

Labor Wins Two Seats In Britain

LONDON (CP)—Britain's labor party held two seats by solid margins in by-elections Thursday.

The results were seen as another setback for Prime Minister Macmillan's ruling Conservatives. Although the Labor candidates in the two ridings were favored before the vote, in both cases the support given the Conservative candidates fell far below the level of the 1959 general election.

In the Welsh riding of Swansea East, Labor candidate Neil McEneaney ran up a total of 18,909 votes for a winning margin of 14,014 votes.

Second highest in the vote total was Liberal Richard Owens with 4,885 votes. Rex Levan Atkin, an independent, was third with 2,462. Conservative Pamela Thomas fourth with 2,272.

In the Yorkshire steel town of Rotherham, Labor candidate Brian O'Malley ran up a total of 22,441 votes in a three-way fight.

Hawks, Leafs Victors

Victory in the second game of their Stanley Cup semifinal series with Detroit Red Wings had its price for Chicago Black Hawks last night. Star centre Bobby Hull broke his nose and suffered such a severe cut that he may be lost to Hawks for third game Sunday. Hawks won 5-2, and Toronto beat Montreal, 3-2, to take 2-0 lead in series. See stories, picture, Page 12.

A few hours later a junk dealer stumbled upon the body of Dixon's attractive, blond girl friend some eight miles away. Her killer had dragged her into a bushland area and covered her with parts of an abandoned car.

She had been viciously beaten about the face, and her head jammed so hard into the ground that it's impression was still visible hours after her body had been removed.

The grisly discoveries touched off one of the most intensive investigations ever launched in B.C.

But months later veteran police officers could say only one thing — it is the most baffling case they ever encountered.

Jets Rake U.S. Ship Off Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two unidentified jet planes fired shots near the 360-foot American motor ship Floridian in international waters off the north coast of Cuba Thursday night, the U.S. state department reported.

Bursts were fired across the bow and stern of the ship without hitting it, the department said it was advised.

The vessel, sailing between Palm Beach, Fla., and Puerto Rico with general cargo, carries a crew of 30.

There was no comment from the White House.

TERSE STATEMENT

A terse state department announcement said:

"The U.S. Coast Guard has reported the receipt of a message from the U.S. motor ship Floridian proceeding in international waters off the north coast of Cuba en route from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Miami, Fla.

"The message reported that at approximately 6:05 p.m. Washington time Thursday two unidentified jet aircraft had fired bursts across the Floridian's bow and stern without sinking the ship."

Ferry Capsizes, 22 Feared Lost

SEOUL (AP) — Twenty-two Koreans are feared lost in the capsizing of a small ferry boat near Changwon, 30 miles west of Pusan, the national police reported Thursday. The ferry sank Wednesday with 11 persons aboard. Nineteen were rescued, 18 were missing and four bodies were recovered.

Mystery Model Returns

Christine Keeler, the British model whose friendship with cabinet minister raised controversy in parliament, pushes her way through onlookers with help of police after arriving at London airport from Spain. Miss Keeler, 21, who failed to appear at trial of Jamaican boyfriend, returned voluntarily. See story, Page 10.—(AP Photofax)

John D Cuts Defections

By SAMUEL LUBELL
Fifth of a Series

The last 10 days have brought a fairly dramatic shift in how many voters feel toward Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

In Toronto a married couple were being interviewed together. When the husband, a sales executive said he intended to vote for Mr. Diefenbaker's re-election, his wife exclaimed in surprise.

"Didn't we decide we were both against him?" He made such a fool of this country over nuclear arms."

"I was going Liberal," the husband explained. "But I saw a picture of old John in front of a big crowd saying every body is against me but the people. He was standing so straight. He stands up for what he believes."

Similar comments of "He knows his own mind" or "No one tells him what to do" have been voiced in every city or town that I have gone into recently.

In Kitchener a 36-year-old of Liberals have broken for rubber worker, normally a Conservative, enthused. "He's these shifts showing up during a fighter. A few months ago this past week. While he has they had him on the floor, reduced the defections in his own party, he is nowhere near stopping them.

In every urban riding one finds some break of Conservative voters, mainly to the Liberals but often to the New Democratic Party. These shifters criticize Mr. Diefenbaker as "a born squabbler" or "a one-man man" or "a dictator who can't get along with anyone."

Other Conservatives are torn between admiration of his fighting qualities and disagreement with his opinions.

Final Project 819 Cost Double Contract Price

Highways department comptroller A. E. Rhodes told the afternoon sitting of the public accounts committee hearing that controversial Project 819 ended up costing more than double the amount of the contract price because of extensive changes after the job was let.

Final cost of the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway "job" was $1,557,498, he said.

The contract was awarded to Bonanza Construction on a second call for tenders at $727,379.

"Explosive" affidavits ruled out as evidence in highways probe. See Page 36.

Mr. Rhodes said changes in the project accounted for most of the difference in the final cost and pointed out that all but $186,000 went to Mannix Construction after the firm took it over.

Bonanza was a subsidiary of L. & M. Logging and Union Contractors, the firms which built Trans-Canada Highway Project 819 — the job which

Will Pearson

Step Down

If It's Minority?

From CP and UPI Liberal leader Pearson denied flatly Thursday night reports that the Liberal party would support a Coalition with the Conservatives.

The reports, circulated by the Montreal Gazette, said Mr. Pearson favored the idea of a coalition with the Tories in the April 8 election resulted in a stalemate.

In Toronto Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the reports showed Mr. Pearson had given up hope in the election.

"Mr. Pearson has convinced himself he cannot win," he said. "That's the meaning of this latest demonstration."

But Mr. Pearson, in Edmonton where he addressed an election meeting attended by a crowd of 3,000, said, there is absolutely no truth in the reports. (See also Page 10.)

"These reports appear to be a last-ditch move to confuse the electorate and thereby save the Conservative party from total defeat," he said.

The reports first appeared in the Toronto Telegram Monday. The next morning Toronto's Globe & Mail reported Mr. Pearson refused to deny
